The Rotary Club believes that a personal inspection of Purdue University, with the opportunity of getting an insight into the work it is doing and the valuable service it is rendering to the state and its citizens would prove of great interest. The citizens of Lafayette take great pride in the University and the State Soldiers' Home, and feel that these two institutions should rightly stand as monuments of the progress and beneficence of the State.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY:

"Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself, but he that putteth it off."

Under our constitution, it is the duty of the outgoing Governor to lay before the General Assembly an account of the condition of the state, together with such recommendations as he may conclude to be in the public interest.

This administration covered the World War period and the beginning of the more trying readjustments following the war. At its beginning, affairs not only in the state, but in the nation were already unsettled by the war in which all civilized nations of the world, except our own, were engaged. At that time it was thought that we would not finally become involved in the war. The General Assembly in 1917, therefore, made no provision to meet the unusual conditions created by our becoming a party to the war.

The rise in prices, the scarcity of labor and its high cost and efficiency, the shortage of cars and the congestion of the transportation lines in the country, made it impossible correctly to estimate the exact needs of the various state institutions.

To meet this situation, the General Assembly of 1917 created, for the first time, what was known as the Emergency Contingent Fund to be expended by the Governor for the purpose of meeting any deficits in the operation of the various state institutions.

This fund was again created by the General Assembly of 1919 and provision was made at the special session of 1920 to meet the deficit in the current appropriations of the state institutions. Of this 1917 fund $142,961.30 was used to meet the current deficit of the fiscal year ending September 30, 1917, and the following amounts were used each year thereafter down to the close of the fiscal year ending September 30th last:

For the year ending September 30, 1918.....	$207,038 70
For the year ending September 30, 1919.....	306,000 00
For the year ending September 30, 1920.....	156,307 98

The full effect of rising prices was not felt until 1919-20. When the General Assembly met in 1919, convinced that prices rapidly would decline, again it failed to make sufficient appropriations to maintain the various state institutions. Prices, instead of declining, rapidly advanced and reached their highest point in the Spring of 1920.

On account of the unsettled condition it was not thought advisable during the war and the period immediately following to embark on any new construction not imperatively demanded.

The activities of this administration have been directed, therefore, along other lines than that of new construction work. The only new buildings that have been added to the various state institutions during the past four years have been the construction of the boys' group and part of the woman's group at the Epileptic Village; farm colonies at the Eastern and Southeastern Hospitals for the Insane and the new buildings at the Reformatory and the Feeble-Minded Colony.

Taking advantage of the low price of land in 1917, and again in 1919, at the request of the executive, the General Assembly placed under the control of the Governor and the Legislative Committee a fund for the purchase of real estate and for making extraordinary improvements that might be needed by the various institutions.

Acting under this authority, there has been purchased for the state during the past four years 5,175 acres of land at a cost of $571,808. The real estate is worth today at least one million dollars. This legislation has justified every expectation of those who proposed it. Under the old plan, a specific appropriation to purchase real estate, was notice to every owner of real estate in the neighborhood of the institution that the state was in the market for land. The result was that it was difficult to purchase land at a fair price.

Under the plan adopted during the past four years, it has been possible for the executive, with the concurrence of the committee, to exercise the same judgment and freedom of action in the purchase of land that applies to an individual dealing in his own private interest.

It will not be necessary in the future to purchase much additional real estate for state institutions. Several of them, however, will need to make such purchases for the proper extension of their activities.

I. therefore recommend that a fund of at least $300,000 be placed at the disposal of the executive and the legislative committee for the purpose of acquiring real estate by this method.

DEFICIENCY APPROPRIATION.

It will be necessary to make additional appropriation to enable the state institutions to complete the present fiscal year.

The period of rising prices due to the war is at an end, however. Prices have declined more than forty per cent within the past six months and further declines are undoubtedly before us.

It is very important that we should return to our pre-war policy of living within the appropriations made. Deficiency appropriations invite deficits. Emergency contingent funds to meet deficits encourage extravagance. Appropriations sufficient to run all institutions and departments should be made and then it should be understood most clearly that the law prohibiting deficits must be obeyed to the letter.

A glance at the large deficits in other states, the huge deficits at Washington, with the disregard of legislative limitation on expenditure and the attendant extravagance, should impel us to return at once to our pre-war policy of living within the appropriations made.

STATE FINANCES.

The state tax levy was reduced in 1917 from 40.1 cents upon the hundred dollars to 35.85 cents and to 18 cents in 1919. It was increased to 20 cents in 1920 on account of the state colleges and the soldiers' memorial. Even with the increased valuation of property there has been collected from the taxpayers of the state to support all the activities of the state government, except the highway department, an average of $156,092.19 less per year than was collected for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1916.

At the beginning of this administration, the state owed two obligations—one of $340,000 to Purdue University, and the other a judgment that had been obtained against the state in favor of Purdue University during Governor Ralston's administration, from which judgment Governor Ralston had appealed. The Supreme Court decided this case in favor of the University and the state was required to and did pay during this administration by reason of that decision $676,500.

Under the direction of the General Assembly we have invested the $340,000 in Liberty Bonds and now hold in the treasury of the state as a trust fund to meet the Purdue debt when due four hundred thousand dollars face value of these bonds, the interest upon which will meet the interest due Purdue and when paid will show a profit to the state of sixty thousand dollars.

The inheritance tax fund, the collections of which have amounted during the past four years to $1,843,150.52 and which under the previous administration went into the general fund, was by legislation transferred to the new Highway Department. It has been used for the purpose of building and maintaining the state highway system.

There has been paid out during the past four years on the state debt, for the purchase of real estate, the remodeling of the State House, the rebuilding of the Reformatory, the new buildings at the Epileptic Village, the Feeble-Minded Colony, the State Council of Defense and the extra military expense incident to the war $3,228,927. Notwithstanding this extraordinary expense, the debts of every kind paid or provided for by the purchase of bonds and with $479,973.88 invested in binder twine, boots and shoes, clothing, the iron foundry, the other manufacturing industries in the state institutions, there remained in the state treasury on January 1, 1921, a cash balance of $6,151,135.70, an increase in cash of $555,895.47 over the balance on January 1, 1917. Including the Liberty Bonds in the treasury and the merchandise on hand and paid for, the increase will amount to nearly one and a half million dollars. This result has been accomplished by the earnest co-operation of the heads of the state institutions, of the departments in the State House and of various elective state officers. They have shown the highest degree of efficiency in the conduct of their offices and the most economical administration of the state's affairs.

It is clear from the financial condition of the state and having in mind the possibility of increasing the revenues of the state through the fees and taxes charged for licenses and other service rendered for the state, as herein recommended, that during the next four-year period there will be available for extraordinary expenses at least one million dollars a year. With this situation in view, a program should be adopted extending over the four-year period, and to include the following: Increasing the capacity of our state hospitals for the insane by at least 1,500, as elsewhere stated; the erection of new buildings at the Central Hospital for the Insane; the completion of the group of buildings at the Epileptic Village at Newcastle and the construction of the Feeble-Minded Colony at Butlerville; the removal of the Reformatory; the erection of a children's hospital and psychopathic clinic established in connection with the Long Hospital and the State Medical School. The entire program ought to and can be completed within the four-year period and with no increase in the State tax levy. These matters are all of great importance to the people of the state and I trust that the General Assembly can see its way clear to make the appropriation necessary to carry out the above program.

If this recommendation should be approved, the law should provide that the work should move forward upon the approval of the Governor as rapidly as the funds are available.

INSPECTION FEES.

The state has never had a uniform policy with respect to charging fees to cover the cost of maintaining its various inspection departments.

The Bank Department is entirely supported by the fees collected from banks, savings associations and building and loan associations. The Oil Department is supported by the fees charged there. The Pure Food and Drug Division of the State Board of Health by the last General Assembly was authorized to charge certain fees that assist in paying the expenses of that department.

The policy that obtains in many states, in my judgment, should obtain here, namely, that in all cases where the nature of the business requires inspection or supervision by the state, fees will be charged by the state for the service rendered to cover at least the cost of the department.

I recommend that the laws be amended so as to fix fees for the inspection of mines, factories, dairies, bake shops, boilers and the various other activities inspected and supervised by the state so as to cover into the treasury a sum at least sufficient to pay the entire costs of maintaining such services.

STATE LEVY.

When the Board of State Tax Commissioners met in September, 1920, to fix the levies for all state purposes, it was ascertained that the fees collected by the various departments and the earnings of the state institutions would be more than sufficient to pay all the ordinary expense of the state government and that it would not be necessary to make a levy for that purpose.

The Presidents of the state's schools appeared before the Tax Board and requested that the levy of 2.8 cents for these institutions be increased one cent.

It was the opinion of the Board, in which the executive concurred, that the General Assembly never intended to confer on the Tax Board the power to appropriate money, which result would have followed any increase of the state school levy.

After giving careful consideration to the situation, the Board of Tax Commissioners decided to add one mill to the tax levy. The proceeds of this extra mill, amounting to $550,000 will be paid into the general fund during this year and subject to appropriation by the General Assembly, if in its judgment, the state schools need additional funds to carry on their work.

STATE PURCHASING AGENT.

In 1917 Governor Ralston recommended to the General Assembly the abolishment of the separate Boards of Control of the various institutions and centralization of control together with the purchase of supplies in a central Board of Control. Believing, as I did, that all of the advantage of centralized purchasing could be accomplished without losing the great advantage arising from the non-partisan management of the institution by separate Boards, I recommended to the General Assembly of 1917 the creation of a Purchasing Committee to be made up of a member designated from the Board of Trustees of each state institution. After two years trial this was found to be cumbersome and unworkable. The General Assembly of 1919, upon executive recommendation, authorized this committee to employ a Secretary or Purchasing Agent. The results accomplished have justified the statement by Governor Ralston that $250,000 could be saved in the purchase of supplies. The committee has standardized a large number of articles used by the institutions and centralized the purchase of these articles in a purchasing agent who acts with the advice of a small committee of the trustees. This arrangement has obtained the efficiency of a centralized purchasing agent. It has cut out the middle-man's profit, bringing the state as a consumer and the manufacturer and producer together. Yet it has left the general conduct of the institution in the hands of its Board of Trustees, thus preserving all the advantage of separate control.

The Joint Purchasing Committee has filed its report which shows a saving in a single year of $247,010.44. The Purchasing Committee is gradually taking over the purchase of additional supplies.

In addition to the above, by co-ordinating the work of the various institutions and arranging for one institution to supply all the others with certain needed articles, the Purchasing Committee has been able to effect other savings not indicated in their report.

I earnestly urge that the present arrangement be continued.

INHERITANCE TAX.

The inheritance tax in Indiana has proven a source of considerable revenue. This money goes into the highway fund to be used in building and maintaining the highways. The amount of taxes collected is not in line with levies by many other states. I recommend that the present rate of taxation upon the devolution of estates be increased.

AUTOMOBILE LICENSE.

The tax levied upon automobiles in this state is entirely inadequate, is below the average collected throughout the country and very much less than the amount collected in the states adjoining us.

The tax on trucks is particularly low. The truck lines of the state are handling each year an increased amount of freight and express. They are operated exclusively for profit. The tax on trucks should be greatly increased so that they would to some extent contribute to the support of highways in proportion to the use they make of them. We are paying $30,000 to $40,000 a mile to build hard surface roads and furnish the rights of way for these commercial truck lines to pursue their business. While the construction of these roads is of great benefit to the state, in addition to that it is of peculiar and special benefit to the owners of automobiles and trucks. I recommend that the tax upon trucks be increased heavily, and that the automobile tax generally be increased, and that the funds so derived be used for the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the state. It has been suggested that data on the gasoline and oils be prepared for submission to the General Assembly. This I have had done. Several states have enacted laws levying taxes upon gasoline, the proceeds of which is used for the construction of highways. These states make but a nominal charge for automobile license plates. This would make the tax directly proportionate to the use of the roads by automobiles and trucks. It is worthy of the careful consideration of the General Assembly.

PRISON CONTRACTS.

Under the law passed in 1917 the prison contract system was abolished. On the first day of October, 1920, all of the contracts made during the two previous administrations expired.

Through negotiations with the various prison contractors we were able to cancel the last of the contracts March 1, 1920. Since that time the State Prison, the Reformatory and the State Farm have all operated on state's account. The advantage of this arrangement has been demonstrated since that time. The State Farm last year earned every dollar appropriated by the General Assembly for its maintenance, repairs and buildings and turned a balance of $35,466.28 into the treasury. The State Reformatory paid into the state treasury during the fiscal year ending September 30th, $191,024.01, or only about $40,000 short of its operating expenses. The State Prison reports that after paying all of its expenses, it showed a profit of over $40,000.00.

From the reports of the operation of these three institutions for the months of October, November and December, the General Assembly may be sure that the penal and correctional institutions will not this year cost the taxpayers of Indiana a dollar. There is no reason why they should not continue to be self-supporting.

The last General Assembly provided in the appropriation bill that, with the consent of the Governor, penal institutions should have the right to apportion PROFITS among prisoners. If the law is not now broad enough to cover this, I urge that a law be passed giving to the trustees of the State Prison and the Reformatory the right, with the approval of the Governor, to apportion part of the EARNINGS regardless of profits to the inmates of these institutions for their own use or for the support of their dependent families. The division of earnings already made has resulted in an improved morale in the penal institutions, in greater efficiency upon the part of men and a larger interest in their work.

REMOVAL OF THE REFORMATORY.

I recommended to the General Assembly of 1919 that the Reformatory be removed from its present site at Jeffersonville to a more central part of the state. It is clearly in the public interest that this be done, but a false local pride, coupled with a personal interest, prevented its removal at that time.

The Reformatory's present location interferes largely with the discipline of the inmates and makes impossible the acquirement of land in close proximity to the institution. Seventy-five per cent of the inmates of this institution come from Indianapolis or north of Indianapolis. Every county in that part of the state must pay the expense of transporting its prisoners to the extreme southern part of the state.

I can see no reason, in view of the rapidly decreasing population at the State Farm, why the Reformatory could not be moved there, the two institutions consolidated and operated under the management of one superintendent and Board of Trustees.

If this were done at once, the buildings could be constructed almost wholly by the labor of the inmates and a large amount of material necessary for construction could be made at the State Farm. The State Farm at this time is not only paying all of its expenses, but is earning a handsome return upon every dollar the state has invested. If consolidated with the State Farm, there is no doubt that the Reformatory would in like manner, as soon as it was constructed, pay the entire cost of its operation. Such a result is impossible under present conditions.

The land purchased for the Reformatory east of Jeffersonville three years ago can be sold for more than double its cost and the Reformatory building and grounds could be sold to some manufacturing concern and the money used toward paying the cost of the new institution.

INCREASE IN SALARIES.

It is apparent at this time that many demands will be made upon the General Assembly for the increase of officials' salaries and for the support of the various state institutions. Every one of these demands should receive the closest scrutiny. It is evident that increased appropriations will be needed for some of the state institutions, but at a time like this when prices are rapidly declining, when the incomes of the taxpayers of the state are decreasing, when the purchasing power of the dollar is growing greater month by month, and when the dollar is becoming more difficult to acquire, great care should be exercised in adding to the burdens of the people. However easy it may be in private business to meet the decreased prices and the increased value of the dollar by adjusting wages, salaries and expenses to meet changing conditions, it has never yet been found possible to decrease the statutory salary or compensation of any one engaged in the public service. While the state should not ask any of its citizens to serve it for less than the same talent or ability would command in private life, yet every step taken in the direction of an increase in compensation should be with the fact ever before you that an increase, once made, will stand as unalterable so far as any reduction is concerned, as the law of the Medes and the Persians.

An active organization of public officials is being perfected to bring before the General Assembly various requests for the increase of salaries and wages.

In the past years much of the time of the General Assembly has been consumed in fixing the salaries of county, township and city officers, the compensation to be paid to laborers, clerks, stenographers and bailiffs in the various communities of the state.

We talk much about Home Rule and yet the General Assembly from time to time is called upon to deal with these matters that are purely of local interest and the burden of which falls alone upon the various local communities.

In order that this General Assembly and those in the future may be relieved from this pressure, I believe that it would be the part of wisdom to pass a law authorizing the Board of County Commissioners and the County Council in joint session prior to the election every two years to fix by proper resolution the compensation to be paid the various local officials.

These organizations are elected by the people and immediately responsible to them. If they fix the salaries too high, they are answerable to the people of their own community for it. If they cast an unnecessary burden upon the people they have full recourse at the next election to put out of power the party which has abused its trust.

I recommend that instead of the General Assembly fixing the compensation of all these local officials, that a law be enacted vesting such authority in the above named official boards.

LEGISLATIVE RECORD.

It is with some degree of pride that we refer to the legislation enacted during the past four years. A mere reference to the more important matters of legislation is sufficient to advise the General Assembly of the far-reaching steps that have been taken in this state. Among the legislative accomplishments are:

- Laws prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors,
- Ratification of the woman's suffrage and prohibition amendments,
- Laws abolishing the elective offices of State Statistician and State Geologist and appointive offices of legal clerk and legal supernumeraries and board of veterinary examiners,
- Laws creating the Department of Conservation, Department of Banking and Insurance and the Live Stock Sanitary Commission,
- The State Year Book law which put an end to the great waste of printing useless department reports,
- The State Highway Commission Law,
- The Blue Sky Law,
- The Tax Revision Laws,
- The Coal Commission Law,
- The passage of joint resolutions authorizing the submission to the people of sixteen amendments to the constitution—among these the budget system.

These amendments, if adopted will give the Governor the right to veto separate items in the appropriation bill; will give the General Assembly power to apply the registration law only to the larger counties of the state; will prohibit increases in salaries; will extend the term of all state and county officers to four years, and provide for an income tax and other amendments of vital importance to the people of the state.

DEPARTMENT OF CONSERVATION.

The Department of Conservation entered upon its duties April 4, 1919. It has been in existence only twenty-one months. Its development, both as to organization and results achieved, has exceeded the hopes of those who favored the creation of this department. It has won the confidence of the people. Much of its success is due to the carefully prepared plans for its operation; much to the organization. The supervision is in the hands of an able commission. The director selected by the commission, and the officers chosen by the Director with the commission's approval, have shown marked ability.

The division of Geology, co-operating with the State University, at an expense of $5,541.45 has secured the help of twenty-one scientists and experts in relation to the work performed by this division. The General Assembly should take such action as will enable the department to arrive at a similar understanding with Purdue University in the direction of an engineering division to have charge of the many demands made upon the department for surveys and the investigation of lake levels, purification of streams, prevention of flood damage and many other related subjects.

The division of Geology has located nine million tons of coal under the bed of the Wabash River that belongs to the state. Heretofore the coal operators have been taking out this coal without any compensation to the state. Effort is being made to recover the value of the coal already taken and to insure payment for coal mined in the future. In this effort the department should have the fullest support of the General Assembly.

The division of Entomology has done notable work. Through the exercise of its police powers there was warded off in the year 1919 a threatened quarantine against Indiana wheat. The work of this division has been of notable benefit to every industry of the state with which it comes in contact.

The division of Forestry is not only doing excellent work in the investigation of the trees of Indiana and the publications in connection therewith, but has aroused the people of Indiana to a lively appreciation of the necessity not only of preserving our forests, but of embarking upon an intelligent extension of that work.

The division of Lands and Waters has demonstrated that the state parks are not only a necessity to the welfare of our people, but that they may be maintained so as to make them, when once established, practically self-sustaining. The state has acquired three valuable parks, known as Turkey Run, McCormick's Creek and Clifty Falls largely through private donation. The department should receive every encouragement in extending our state park system. We should have state parks located on our highway system, easily accessible to the people of every part of the state to which they may easily go for rest and recreation. The cost of acquiring and maintaining these parks is insignificant when compared with great good that flows from them.

Especially do I call your attention to the advisability of preserving in the north part of the state for that great industrial section, the Sand Dunes Park along the southern shores of Lake Michigan. Unless some steps are taken at an early date, this beautiful tract of ground, will be taken up by private interests and no longer be available for park purposes.

The division of Fish and Game is entirely self-supporting and has done remarkable things. Operated purely in the public interest and not as a mere instrument with which to reward men for political service, it has demonstrated what a strictly disinterested administration means. The increase of its assets has been astonishing during the first year and a half of its operation. Three times as many fish were hatched and distributed as in previous years. Close co-operation has been secured between the department and the one hundred and eight fish and game protective associations. The laws have been enforced impartially. During the fiscal year ending October 1, 1920, a total of 1,421 arrests were made, a gain of 621 over the fiscal year ending on the same date in 1919, and 28,700 additional licenses have been sold during the same period. The game warden service has been handled with firmness but with fairness and justice.

While it was not claimed, when this department was established that its operation would result in any great saving of money, yet during the short time it has been in operation it has shown a net saving of over $60,000. The work which this department is doing for men, women and children is not alone for today. It is planned on a large scale and should adequately be supported. Compared with the results achieved, the cost to the tax payers of the state has been insignificant.

The results measured in terms of dollars are the most unimportant achievements of this department and do not take into consideration such elements as recreation, increased vitality and health of the whole population. The department has for its purpose the safety, the prosperity and the contentment of the coming generations. Its work is based upon the experience of the past and operates for the future in the present.

I commend the work of this department to the General Assembly and trust that it will recognize the needs of the department and by its generous support enable it to do a still larger work for prosperity and happiness within our state.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION.

Indiana has emerged from the war period and the more trying post-war era, with her public utilities intact.

I call your attention to the fact, that notwithstanding the most extraordinary handicaps, there has been less curtailment of service; that there are lower rates and that the utilities themselves are in better condition in Indiana than in most other comparable states.

This record is not one of accident. It is the result of able and careful direction by the Public Service Commission. In the matter of rates, the Indiana Commission adopted the theory that the lowest rates that will yield revenues sufficient to maintain the service—and necessary credit—not only would be best for patrons but for the public utilities as well.

The handicaps have seemed insurmountable at times. The Commission had to urge continuity of service when coal did not appear to be available; the maintenance of plants when money seemed equally unavailable.

When the nation entered the war, the President of the United States called on such commissions and utilities not to use labor, materials or money. The result was that much maintenance and replacement to cover wear and tear had to be deferred. Following the war the world began an unprecedented bidding for money. The cost of fifty cent dollars became almost prohibitive and forced further deferring of maintenance.

On the heels of these handicaps came the most severe ordeal of all—the run-away coal market this year. Slack and screenings, which in 1913 sold at thirty cents a ton at the mines and in 1916 sold at eighty cents, advanced from the Government war period price of $2.05 a ton at the mines to $7.00 and even higher levels. Small utilities requiring better grades faced quotations of $10.00 to $15.00 per ton. This fluctuation in coal was almost paralleled in oils. Labor, materials and supplies used in operation and maintenance, advanced from 100 per cent to 300 per cent over 1915.

The war has brought better understanding of the almost complete dependence of modern society on agencies which supply water, gas, electricity, heat and transportation of persons, commodities and intelligence.

New economic conditions are before us. There never was a time when the people of the state, and the utilities, needed intelligent regulation so urgently. Only by such a policy may the utilities in Indiana hope to attract the new capital needed in the next two years to meet the demands of the public for service.

The Commission has carried on a continuous three-year fight against railroad rate inequalities. It has been successful. Indiana freight rates and shipping conditions have been made uniform. The next step was to spread this uniformity over the whole competitive field in which Indiana shippers are interested—the North Central States.

Illinois yielded least to these efforts. The Indiana Commission, by its own orders affecting intrastate rates, and by its aggressive fight before the United States Railroad Administration and the Interstate Commerce Commission, has finally obtained uniformity between Indiana and Illinois. This means much for the development of Indiana. The Indiana Commission is co-operating with other states in carrying to the Supreme Court of the United States the question of whether the Interstate Commerce Commission or the states is to have jurisdiction in purely state rates and shipping conditions. In obtaining, however, the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission that shipping conditions in Indiana and Illinois are so closely parallel that lower rates in Illinois creates an unfair condition against Indiana shippers, the Public Service Commission has established substantial assurance that the old discriminations will not reappear.

TAX LAW.

The revision of our tax laws has been a lively question in Indiana. That the old system was a failure was conceded by every one. While there was in it the foundation of a good law, yet on account of faulty administration, failure to live up to its provisions, and the lack of any power on the part of the commission to enforce its orders, the law had virtually become a dead letter. Every taxing official in the state was administering it according to his personal desires.

This practice resulted in great injustice and inequality in the assessment of property. The situation was one that demanded the attention of the General Assembly. The dominant political party had promised, time after time, to revise the law. The General Assembly of 1919, obedient to its promise and the mandate of the people, expressed at the polls in 1916 and 1918, revised the tax law.

In the administration of this law, the total assessed valuation of property increased from two and a quarter billions to nearly six billions of dollars. This increased the debt contracting power of the various municipalities, under the constitution, nearly three times. It made possible the indulgence in great extravagance. The old tax law had a statutory limitation as to the amount of tax that could be levied for the various public purposes.

Not knowing at the time the law was passed, to what extent the duplicate would be increased, and fearing the result of the unlimited power to make tax levies and contract debts, the General Assembly vested in the Tax Board the control over tax levies and bond issues.

This placed an enormous amount of work and great responsibility upon the Tax Board. It did not prove entirely satisfactory to the people. Both political parties demanded the return to what popularly was known as home rule in the various communities. At the special session of 1920 the control of the Tax Board over tax rates and bond issues was abolished and the local communities permitted, without any limitation whatever, to levy any amount of tax they saw fit and to issue bonds up to the constitutional limit. The increase in tax rates and the tendency to multiply bond issues, illustrate the danger that lies in this unrestricted privilege.

I am fully convinced that some limitation must be placed upon this power, that it is advisable to restore a fixed statutory limitation upon the right to make tax levies and the right to issue bonds, or to vest in some body far removed from local influences the final appellate control over these important functions.

A glance at the tax levies and the great burdens cast upon the taxpayers of Indiana during this coming year is an impressive illustration of the abuses of this unrestricted power. This added burden will be small beside the burden that will fall upon the taxpayers in 1922 unless some protection is afforded them. I recommend, therefore, that while the power of the local boards to originate tax rates and authorize bond issues remain with such boards, that the right to review such actions on appeal be vested in the State Board of Tax Commissioners in such manner as to afford adequate protection to the taxpayers.

STATE HIGHWAY LAW.

The state highway law was passed. The State Highway Commission has laid out a system of highways extending to every county seat and town of more than five thousand people. The total is about 3,500 miles.

The work of organizing the department under the unusual conditions that existed has been slow and difficult. People have not been able to foresee all the benefits that will flow from the enactment of this law.

Fifty miles of hard surface roads have been completed. One hundred thirty miles more are under contract.

There has been expended for construction.....	$2,630,858 89
For motor transport, including garage.....	258,782 50
For maintenance.....	1,585,848 52

With the general fall in prices the Highway Commission should substantially increase new construction. We may look forward to the time when every county will be connected with every other county by a system of permanent hard-surface roads, so constructed as to withstand the heavy demands made upon them under modern traffic conditions. The state levy for highways should be so increased that with the increase in the auto license tax 400 miles of highway could be constructed each year, until the state system had been completed.

LIVE STOCK SANITARY COMMISSION.

The live stock sanitary commission created by the last General Assembly took the place of the old state board of veterinary examiners.

It is made up of two live stock men and two veterinary surgeons. This important service has been placed on a strictly non-partisan basis and has proven to be exceedingly satisfactory to the live stock interests.

INSURANCE AND BANKING DEPARTMENTS.

The last General Assembly created separate departments of banking and insurance, the heads to be appointed by and directly responsible to the Governor.

The banking department has made an enviable record during the past four years. Not a dollar has been lost to the depositors of Indiana during that period through the failure of any of our banking institutions.

The law creating the insurance department and vesting in the commissioner the control of rates is one of the best laws in this country. It requires uniform treatment of all policy holders, prevents discrimination in rates, and vests in the state the authority to determine and fix a reasonable rate. Under this law insurance companies have been prevented from charging exorbitant rates and many hundreds of thousands of dollars have been saved to the policy holders of Indiana.

The fees collected in the bank department have increased $7,936.02. The fees collected in the insurance department during the last year, without any change in the law, have increased $256,044.03. Both of these departments are entitled to the full support of the General Assembly.

COAL COMMISSION.

The coal commission created by the special session prevented in Indiana extortions practiced in many states, as disclosed by the senatorial investigation at Washington. It saved the consumers of Indiana more than a million dollars. It prevented profiteering by the coal operators during the acute period that obtained in the late summer and fall. Normal conditions have been restored and the operators are freely selling coal under the prices fixed by the commission.

A suit to test the constitutionality of the law is now pending in the United States Supreme Court. This case should vigorously be pressed to a conclusion so that the police power of the state may clearly be defined.

In this connection I want to call attention to the fact that Jesse Eschbach, Chairman of the State Board of Accounts, upon whose shoulders has rested in a large measure the administration of this law, has performed a large amount of extra service; he not only served as a member of the commission, but also as fuel director; he has worked intelligently and untiringly in the public interest during the time this law has been in force. The law creating the commission made no provision for this extra service.

I recommend that a suitable appropriation be made by the General Assembly to compensate Mr. Eschbach for his services, and chargeable against the fees collected by the commission.

OIL DEPARTMENT.

After many repeated attempts and a long struggle, the old oil inspection department was finally abolished by the General Assembly in 1919. The inspection of oils was placed under the direction of the pure food and drug division of the State Board of Health. The number of inspectors under this law was reduced from seventy to twenty-six. The oils of the state have been carefully and intelligently inspected. All expenses of the department have been paid by fees. There was turned into the state treasury during the first year of its operation a net profit of over $65,000.00.

I am advised that an attempt will be made to repeal this law and restore the old situation. An attempt of this kind could have no foundation except that of the selfish interest of those who expect to profit thereby. Such an attempt should receive no encouragement at the hands of the General Assembly.

HOSPITALS FOR THE INSANE.

Indiana now has five hospitals for the insane. They are well located, so as to accommodate the various sections of the state. Two are in the central, one in the northern and two in the southern parts of the state. At present they are caring for 5,380 patients. On the first day of January there were but 23 inmates confined in the jails of the state and at this time all the hospitals, except the Central Hospital, are able to take care of those who are committed to these institutions.

There is no need in the near future to build an additional institution. The policy should be directed toward increasing the capacity of the present institutions. A large tract of land was recently purchased for the Southern Hospital and buildings should be erected there, so as to increase its ultimate capacity from 800 to 1,400. The construction of another colony at the Southeastern Hospital will increase the capacity of that institution. The Eastern Indiana Hospital, with the completion of two additional colonies, will be able to care for a large number of additional patients. We have just purchased 200 acres of land for the Northern Hospital. More land should be purchased there and the capacity of that hospital largely increased.

The Central Hospital for the Insane should not be enlarged. It has presented a problem to every General Assembly. The buildings are antiquated, part of them are unsanitary fire traps. If it is decided to retain the Central Hospital at its present location, steps should be taken for the destruction of some of the buildings and the erection of modern buildings. If it should be decided to remove the institution from Indianapolis, land should be purchased and construction begun at an early date, with the definite purpose of selling the land occupied by the present institution. The state ought not, under the guise of a colony for the Central Hospital, or in any other way, be committed to the construction of an additional hospital.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

Under the present laws there is no means for transferring to any other institution inmates of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Lafayette who have become of unsound mind. It is inevitable in a population having an average age in excess of sixty years, that many should become mentally defective. Thirty-five of the inmates at this institution are insane, many of them violently so. The Trustees have recommended that a hospital be constructed there, for the accommodation of the insane. This should not be done. The laws should be so amended that any inmate of the Home might, upon the request of the trustees and the Commandant, be transferred by order of the Governor to any existing hospital for custodial care and treatment. The soldiers of the World War are cared for in our present hospitals. The inmates of the Soldiers' Home would receive better care and treatment in the state's hospitals than they possibly could receive in a separate institution erected and maintained in connection with the Home. This would result further in greater economy to the state because the cost of operating an insane hospital for the few inmates that would develop at the Home would outrun any possible benefit to them.

ALL TIME HEALTH OFFICER.

The care of the health of the people is the most important question with which the General Assembly has to deal. Modern science is directed toward the prevention of disease and stopping the needless waste of human life. It is well understood that the application of sanitary science will curb these preventable deaths, will prevent the spread of epidemics and will save the state every year thousands of lives needlessly sacrificed through lack of sanitation.

We need in Indiana a new health law which will take into consideration all discoveries of preventative medicine. I recommended to the General Assembly in 1919 the creation of an all time health officer, but the bill failed to pass. This officer is now found in all the advanced states except Michigan and Indiana. Our universities recognizing the importance of hygiene and sanitary science, have attached to them schools of public health wherein those having the degree of M. D. may receive the highest of all degrees, Doctor of Public Health, when they have finished the course of three years.

The practicing physician who under the present law acts as health officer must earn his living practicing medicine. He receives a mere pittance for doing the public health work of his county. We need in this state an up-to-date scientific law providing for training of health officers who will give their entire time to keeping away diseases and improving the public health. Such officers should be appointed because of their fitness. The county health officer should have a living salary graded by the number of people he serves. His duties and powers should clearly be defined and an accurate record of his work kept. Regular reports should be made to the State Board of Health.

I recommend that a law be passed creating the office of county health officer, that suitable provision be made for his compensation and that every county in the state be required to appoint such an official.

COMMITTEE ON MENTAL DEFECTIVES.

Your attention is called to the report of the Indiana Committee on Mental Defectives appointed under the authority of the legislature to consider the problem of health of mental defectives. It has been making a study of the mental defectives of Indiana and in such work has rendered valuable service to the state. The report is before you and their recommendations should have your careful consideration. I hope that the committee will be continued with suitable appropriation.

CHILD WELFARE AND SOCIAL INSURANCE.

The General Assembly of 1919 authorized the appointment of a Commission on Child Welfare and Social Insurance. This commission, without any compensation to its members, has rendered an unselfish service to the state in making a very thorough investigation of the entire subject of child welfare. It has made an exhaustive report covering the entire situation and has prepared and will submit to you for your consideration bills having for their purpose the conservation of the child life of the state. No subject is of greater importance to the people of Indiana than that of the development of the life of its children. I commend this report to you for your favorable consideration and trust that the recommendation made by the commission may be embodied in law.

STERILIZATION LAW.

Ever since Governor Marshall raised the question as to the constitutionality of the present law authorizing the desexualization of inmates of certain institutions, it has been a dead letter and no serious attempt made to enforce it. I repeatedly have urged the Superintendents of the institutions to take advantage of the present law and desexualize all persons who would be fit to return to their homes but for the fear that they might propagate mental defectives and impose further burdens upon society. They pretty generally have declined to enforce the law for fear of personal liability in the event the law should be held invalid. A suit is now pending in the Supreme Court to enjoin the officers of the Reformatory from desexualizing one of the inmates. It is expected that the decision will be rendered before the General Assembly closes its deliberation. If the law should be held invalid, then I urge the enactment of a new law that will meet the constitutional objection, if any, and authorizing the desexualization of the inmates of the various penal, correctional and benevolent institutions.

STATE BOARD OF CHARITIES.

Indiana in her system of charities holds a high place among the states of the union. Credit for this situation is due to the state board of charities and the intelligent supervision it exercises over the state institutions.

Its members are public spirited citizens who are informed concerning charities and give generously of their time and effort to the state.

After serving with them for four years, I can testify to their helpfulness to me, of the value of their service to the state and the board is entitled to the fullest support of this General Assembly.

BLUE SKY LAW.

A blue sky law had been recommended by the last two state executives. The General Assembly at its special session in 1920 passed such a law. It is not perfect. It is a step in the right direction and will, if properly administered, result in saving our people from heavy losses resulting from the purchase of worthless securities and should be strengthened in every way possible. I recommend the following amendments to the law:

That the fees be increased to bring the charge in line with the fee charged by other states rendering similar service.

That newspapers and periodicals be prohibited from publishing advertisements for securities not licensed by the commission or exempted by the law.

That the commission be given the right to control and regulate the value of promotion, patent rights, copyrights, trade marks, process or good will and the stock to be issued in payment therefor.

The commission should also be given the right to exempt securities listed on the principle exchanges of the country. The securities issued by a corporation not for profit but exclusively for educational, benevolent, charitable, fraternal or other similar purposes should be exempted.

TEACHERS' PENSION LAW.

During the administration of Governor Ralston, a teachers' pension law was passed that is optional in its provisions and only applies to such municipalities as may decide to accept the provisions of the law. The law was defective, was not established upon a sound basis, and simply cast upon the state the burden of assuming the care of teachers after they had taught for thirty-five years.

The law is defective in the further fact that it makes no provision by a present levy for the future demands of the system and tends to deceive school corporations and to mislead them as to the burden that may be cast upon them.

Both parties should know precisely what they have to pay and in making the tax levy, the school corporation should make provision for its share. The fallacy of the present law is shown in the fact that while those who favor it represented not only to the General Assembly but to the various school corporations that embraced the provisions of the law that it would be a long period of years before the school corporations could be called upon to contribute anything to the fund—that the teachers' payment would take care of all demands upon the fund for a long period of time. Yet the fund contributed by the teachers already has been exhausted by a number of school corporations. The fact that under this law any teacher who quits the profession before reaching a pensionable age may withdraw all his contributions, is conclusive proof that the fund in every school corporation in the state would today be hopelessly insolvent if it depended to any considerable degree on the contribution of the teachers. The law reflects little credit upon those who uphold it for selfish interests and none at all upon the wisdom of the General Assembly in enacting the legislation.

If the pensioning of school teachers is to be the accepted policy of the state, then the present law ought to be amended so as to fix just as definitely the part the teachers are to contribute to the fund as the part that the state is to contribute. The state annually should contribute its part. The joint contribution should be adequate to create a permanent fund sufficient to take care of all present and future demands without any increase in the payments and it ought to be made compulsory and state wide in its application.

STATE HOUSE AT CORYDON.

Acting under the authority vested in the executive by the General Assembly, the old state capitol at Corydon has been purchased by the state to be preserved as one of the historic land marks of Indiana. Harrison County will be ready at an early date to vacate the building and turn the same over to the state.

The care and custody of this building properly belongs to the Department of Conservation and I recommend, therefore, that a law be enacted authorizing the Department of Conservation to take charge of this building as soon as it is vacated by the county of Harrison and that a sufficient appropriation be made so as to enable the department properly to care for and preserve the building.

SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL.

The special session of the General Assembly passed a bill creating the Soldiers' Memorial Commission. Before any intelligent steps can be taken for the erection of this memorial, it is necessary that the question finally be determined as to whether or not the City of Indianapolis and the County of Marion are to be authorized to condemn the ground between University Park and the Blind Asylum and turn it over to the State for the use of the memorial.

I am convinced that this should be done.

Many states have voted millions upon millions of dollars for bonuses. No request of this kind has come to the General Assembly of Indiana. But we should not hesitate in the construction of a memorial to expend whatever sum of money may be necessary to erect a memorial that will stand for centuries as the highest expression of the gratitude of a free people to the men and women who offered their lives in their defense.

KANKAKEE-CALUMET DRAINAGE.

Repeated attempts have been made to drain the Kankakee Valley. Many dredge ditches have been constructed, but until the Rock Ledge at Kankakee, Illinois, is removed so as to afford sufficient outlet for such drainage, nothing permanent can be accomplished. The drainage of the great industrial district of the Calumet Region in Lake County and especially an outlet for its sewage is a difficult problem. The drainage of this district should naturally find its way through a canal connecting with the Chicago drainage canal south of Chicago, Illinois. Neither one of these projects can be accomplished without the co-operation of the State of Illinois. The Governor of Illinois has indicated a willingness to co-operate with Indiana in this matter.

I recommend that a law be passed authorizing the appointment by the Governor of a commission to co-operate with a similar commission in the State of Illinois and to present to the General Assemblies of both states legislation to make possible the drainage of the Kankakee Valley and to bring about the construction of a drainage and barge canal connecting the Calumet region in Indiana with the Chicago drainage canal.

HOME RULE FOR CITIES.

Two years ago I recommended the passage of a law giving to the cities of Indiana the right on a referendum vote to adopt the city manager or commission form of government. It passed the House, but was smothered in the Senate.

I again recommend that such a law be enacted.

DEPOSITORY LAW.

Under the present depository law the county treasurers of Indiana in many cases have been converting the Barrett law funds to their own use, either by loaning the money or by depositing it in banks and receiving the interest thereon. They assert that such funds are not governed by the provisions of the present depository law.

This has led to much controversy. Litigation is now pending to test the right of the county treasurers to so use such funds. The county clerks assert the right to use in any way they choose the trust funds coming into their custody. There have been a number of cases of defalcation of county clerks through the misuse of such trust funds. To remove any doubt as to the Barrett law funds and to make it impossible for any public official to speculate in such funds, I recommend that the present depository law be so amended that the county treasurers and county clerks and all other public officials who receive money by color of their office, be required, at the close of each day's business, to deposit such funds in the designated depository of their various townships, cities and counties.

INDUSTRIAL BOARD.

The work of this Board was largely increased by the last General Assembly making compulsory the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Law. This brought under the law 30,000 coal miners and many other employes who had been exempt from its provisions. In the Mine Inspection Department there has been no substantial change in the laws for many years, except the passage of the shot firers' bill and the compulsory compensation provided by the General Assembly of 1919.

The amount of coal annually mined in the state in the past seven years has increased from fourteen to thirty million tons. Ten years ago there were but two mines in the state using electricity for power and light. Now nearly all of them are so equipped. Changes in the mining industry are constantly arising through installation of new methods, increased depth, and the introduction of new appliances and the constant improvement of old appliances essential to the safety of the men engaged in this industry.

The records of the General Assembly should not be burdened by many of these matters. I earnestly urge that the Industrial Board, upon the recommendation of the division of mines and mining and with the approval of the Governor, be authorized to make rules and regulations concerning the conduct and the operation of mines which shall have the full force and effect of law. This will make the law more flexible and easier adapted to the constant change in the mining industry

The last General Assembly passed a bill increasing the membership of the Industrial Board from three to five. The bill originally carried with it a provision authorizing the Board to regulate all accident insurance rates. This provision was stricken out, leaving the increased Board with not sufficient duties. There is no reason why the Board should not be reduced to three members and I recommend that this be done.

PURE SEED LAW.

Many of the states in the Middle West have pure seed laws to protect their farmers against impure and defective seeds. With no protection in this state, Indiana has become the dumping ground for much of the impure seeds. A pure seed law should be enacted to protect our farmers against the shipment into the state, or the sale of, impure seed.

FINES AND FORFEITURES.

Under our law if a fine is assessed against a person without the property with which to pay the fine, he must serve in prison one day for each dollar of fine. This results in the unequal application of law. Two men may commit the same offense, both equally guilty. One with property pays his fine and goes free, the other without property must "lay his fine out." This means practically imprisonment for debt. The federal law provides that after a man has served thirty days upon his fine, upon filing an affidavit of no property, he is discharged. This humane provision should be embodied in the Indiana law and I recommend it to you for your consideration.

REGULATION OF RAILROAD RENTALS.

Numerous complaints have come to the executive that some of the railroads in the state along whose lines industries have been located under a nominal rental, have been, at the termination of the leasehold period, exacting unfair rentals from those who in good faith have located upon their lines and spent large sums of money in the erection of permanent improvements.

The railroads should receive fair compensation for the property furnished these industries, but they should not be allowed to take advantage of the situation and exact unfair rentals.

I recommend that a law be passed giving to the Public Service Commission the right, upon petition filed, to fix a fair rental value for the property used by such industries.

ELECTION FOR THE ADOPTION OF CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

If this General Assembly should approve the joint resolutions now pending, submitting to the voters of the state certain amendments to the constitution, it is exceedingly important that they be considered before the next general election. Among these are amendments making all state and county offices four year offices.

The amendment authorizing the General Assembly to classify counties for registration purposes would make it necessary to require registration in only a very few counties in the state.

In the past constitutional amendments have largely been lost sight of in the interest of a general election.

I recommend, therefore, that the joint resolutions passed by this General Assembly be submitted to the voters of Indiana at a special election to be held during this year and suggest that the date fixed be upon the date of the municipal elections throughout the state.

Nowhere in this message have I recommended legislation in the interest of any particular class. Labor and capital, producer and consumer are so closely bound together by the ties of a common citizenship and a common interest that you cannot injure one without injuring all, and anything that helps one will be of benefit to the whole people.

We must inevitably all go up or down together. While having in mind the justness of the demands of a particular class, you will yet consider it in the end from the viewpoint of its effect upon all the people. In this, my last message to the General Assembly, I am constrained to an expression of judgment as regards the structure and organization of our state government as a whole.

State government in modern times is largely administrative. Our state possesses vast property interests. It has large and complex financial problems. It is constantly faced with a multitude of important business questions. The administration of the state's business and the functioning of the various administrative agencies demand economy and efficiency just as fully as does any private business or industrial enterprise. Yet the structure of our state government, the organization of the executive and administrative machinery upon which economy, efficiency and service to the public depend, is outgrown and obsolete. It cannot function properly or effectively.

There is a more or less widespread belief, merely because the people vote directly for and elect a large number of public officials, that thereby a democratic form of government is being maintained and that the people actually control their officers and their government. In the light of actual experience and extended observation and analysis such a belief is unfounded.

The facts are that by the direct election of a large number of independent administrative officials the public actually loses control of its affairs through the multiplicity of administrative agencies, and even though the people do elect their officers it cannot truthfully be said that they control them. The work of a large number of elected public officers and boards cannot possibly be subjected to continuous public scrutiny.

The real test of whether the people actually control their government is found in the measure of service rendered to the people.

In the not distant future, Indiana must face a reorganization of its government. I believe in a simplified form of state government. Elective offices, the duties of which for the most part are administrative, should be abolished. A large number of state boards should be eliminated, and the various functions of such officers and boards should be consolidated in a few state departments which are responsible to the chief executive. The acts of the Governor of the state are under the constant and critical scrutiny of the public. He is directly responsible to the people. He is charged with the failures in practically all matters of state administration, although under our present governmental organization he is without authority to act in many instances, where he is now held responsible. It is my frank opinion that more and better service can be rendered and that the public will more effectively control their own affairs if the executive and administrative functions of our state government are centered in the Governor and in the state departments responsible to him than can ever be possible with the present division of authority.

I take some pride in the beginning made in this direction during my administration. There should be an independent official directly elected by the people whose duty it would be to audit and check the work of the administrative departments, but aside from this check no other is necessary. These suggestions are not new or revolutionary. They involve no departure from the system of checks and balances conceived and instituted by the founders of our government.

On the contrary, they involve rather a return to the federal system instituted by the "fathers", a gathering of the loose ends of executive and administrative authority that have been suffered to drift away from any direct responsibility to the public in so many of our state governments. We want nothing new, but we do want to revive the basic virtue of the old.

As I meet with you for the last time, I am impressed by and thankful for the fact that so many members of the General Assemblies of 1917 and 1919 are members of this Assembly.

The record of 1917 and 1919 has been one of pledges kept and promises fulfilled. It is not surprising that you have been given a vote of confidence by the people you served so well. The personnel of the General Assemblies of the past four years has been high and I am sure that this can be said of the present General Assembly. I am not afraid to trust the legislative machinery of the state in your hands. The interests of the people will be secure in your keeping, for I know that you will bring to the discharge of your duties honest, earnest endeavor moved by no consideration save that of the public welfare. The people do not require of us impossible things, but they do rightfully demand of us honest, wise and courageous action in the discharge of our public duty.

In 1916 I said: "If elected Governor of Indiana I pledge myself to subordinate personal or partisan aims to the welfare of the people who entrust to me the duties of the Governorship. I shall regard myself as their representative and pledge myself that efficiency and economy shall never be sacrificed to personal ends or partisan expediency." That pledge has been ever before me from the day of my inauguration to the present hour.

I am perfectly willing that every official act of mine shall be judged in the light of and according to the spirit of that pledge. Sincere and earnest effort has been made to redeem that pledge; to crystalize in law and action every promise made to the people.

We have dared to do in some instances what may have appeared to some to be impolitic, when the easier way would have been to have done nothing at all, but we have acted solely in behalf of all the people of the state, have been guided by a determination and a high purpose only to serve them.

As I look back over the record of the past four years, I would not, had I the power to do so, change it in any important particular. I am content with the things accomplished. My only regret is that I have not been able to do more for the people of the state who entrusted me with the Governorship.

GENTLEMEN OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY:

I submit to you herewith, as required by the constitution, a list of the pardons, paroles and remissions of fines, commutations, reprieves, transfers from one institution to another, revocations of paroles, discharges granted under the law at the boys school and the girls school, and there follows an itemized statement of all such action, the recommendation upon which the action was taken, and the reasons therefor.

*Of the 771 cases acted upon by the Executive, 107 were pardoned outright at the request of various conscription boards and of the prisoners and their families in order that they might enlist in the army.

Furthermore, in the 771 cases are 55 persons reported as being paroled when as a matter of fact they were only let out for the purpose of working out their fine. Within the last two years it has been the practice of the executive where a petition was filed by the school fund officers to remit a fine, instead of remitting it, in nearly all cases we permitted the prisoner to go out on parole upon condition that at least five dollars per week be paid to the clerk upon the fine. In this way the state was relieved of the burden of the prisoner, the man was restored to his family and many thousands of dollars turned into the treasury. The fact that these men are compelled to take out of their wages each week this sum of money is a constant reminder of the fact that they have violated the law.

It is interesting to note that during this period of high cost and scarcity of labor during the war, that nearly half of those to whom clemency was extended, or to be exact, 506 persons, were released in order to contribute to the support of their families.

Of the cases passed upon by the executive, clemency was recommended in 676 cases by the judges, prosecutors and the superintendents of the various institutions.

Aside from the number of paroled men who enlisted in the army and others who worked out their fines under parole, as herein stated, and others who went back and assisted in food production during the war, a further fact makes any comparison with the preceding four or eight year period somewhat misleading.

Prior to the establishment of the State Farm, which did not get under way until the last year of Governor Ralston's administration, all misdemeanants were committed to the various county jails and were there under complete control of the local judges who could and did very frequently order their release without appealing to the executive.

It is interesting to note that the number of cases in which relief was granted by the executive at the state prison during the past four year period is much less than during either one of the two previous four year periods.

It will be noted from the list, that while the executive has been somewhat liberal in extending clemency to first offenders, to those in distress, that such has not been the rule when applied to the older and more hardened criminals usually committed to the State Prison. It has often been said that the free exercise of the pardoning power by the Governor tends to create a disregard for law. With this I can not agree. -It is not the length of punishment or the severity of it so much as the certainty of it that causes men to hesitate before violating the law.

The fact that the law does not seem to bear with equal weight upon everybody tends more to bring about a disregard for law than extending clemency to those who have already suffered its penalty.

It is exceedingly difficult to secure the conviction of men in places of power and influence who betray their trust and violate the law. At the same time, those who commit petty offenses and are without influence have the penalties of the law visited upon them. It is this situation more than the mere extension of clemency that brings about disregard for law and a very deep-seated feeling that the law means one thing to a man of low estate and another thing to the man of power and influence.

The record of the cases of clemency extended by the Governor seems to justify the action taken so far as shown by its immediate effect upon the prisoner, for out of the 771 cases in which clemency was extended by the executive, it has only been found necessary to revoke the paroles in 21 cases, or less than three percent.

I have not separated the cases of executive clemency, 54 in number, extended by acting Governor Bush during the 23 days he acted as Governor, but they are included in the list of cases which herein follow.

The time is at hand for me to surrender my office into the hands of my old classmate, friend and worthy successor. I am going to plagiarize a little and use the splendid quotation used by the Governor when he said, "Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself, but he that putteth it off."

I cannot sever the tender relations that have existed between myself and the members of this Senate without first expressing to them, the members of the Senate, to the employes of the Senate, to the members of the press and all others, my sincere appreciation of the many kindnesses and courtesies of which I have been the happy recipient.

I have tried to perform my duties as Lieutenant-Governor of the State of Indiana and as presiding officer of the Senate as I conceived, under the Constitution and my oath of office, my duties to be. I have always held to the opinion that the office of Lieutenant Governor was not created for the purpose of providing the Senate with a mere parliamentary referee. I hold consistently to the opinion that the office of Lieutenant-Governor is quasi-legislative and quasi-administrative. Acting under this conception of what I thought to be my duty of office, I have, in addition to presiding over the deliberations of this Senate as best I could, interested myself in matters of legislation. How ardently I have opposed, and how ardently I have favored, certain proposed measures of legislation, is well known to the members of this Senate and needs no comment from me. I held consistently to the opinion, as presiding officer of this Senate and as a member of the legislative body of the State of Indiana, that the General Assembly should be free to exercise its functions under the Constitution as the lawmaking body of the State of Indiana without outside interference from any source whatsoever.

(Applause) I have held consistently to the opinion that it is only by preserving sacredly separate the three departments of our government—the legislative, created for the purpose of making laws, the executive, created for the purpose of administering laws, and the judicial, created for the purpose of determining the constitutionality of laws—that it is only by adhering strictly to that principle that the purpose of the Constitution is carried out and the best interests of the State of Indiana served by so doing.

I have opposed to what is known as centralization of government. I believe throughout our nation today the impending governmental peril is the disposition on the part of the American people to repose unwarranted authority in the hands of the executive branch of our government. I have favored the retention by the local communities of the greatest possible measure of local self government. I believe that when we transfer from the people the right to determine for themselves their own business and the right to sponsor their own laws and repose the same in the hands of executive authority, we destroy government by removing from the people the ability to govern themselves. Acting under these assumptions, gentlemen of the Senate, as I have understood my oath of office, I have often created differences, but I want to say in all spirit of fairness, honest difference of opinion is what makes legislative life worth living. I want to say under like conditions and like circumstances, I would pursue exactly the same course in the future.

The last presidential election—I am not going to make a political speech out of consideration for the minority over here—but the overwhelming trust that has been placed in the hands of the majority party today is the greatest trust that has ever been reposed in any political party since the establishment of our government and that decision in November, if it emphasizes one thing more than all others, it is that constitutions are made to be respected and that the great American citizen was right when he said that ours is a government of law, and the greatest thing to be kept in mind, in my opinion, is that the provisions of the Constitution, which provide for the sacred separation of the departments of government, be sacredly observed.

My good friend and successor, for whom I have the highest regard and into whose worthy hands I am about to surrender my office, has been credited with saying that there would be the closest co-operation between this branch of the government and the executive department of the government. I commend him to you especially for having given expression to that noble sentiment. I know the quality of Lieutenant-Governor Branch. I know the sternness of his character, the uprightness of his heart, his manliness and his courage, and I know that he has confidence in the incoming administration and believes his duties under the Constitution may be exercised free from any outside interference which would otherwise prevent the consummation of the splendid resolution, and I commend him to you, gentlemen of the Senate, for giving expression to this sentiment.

I am about to return to private life, after a very pleasant vacation of four years, and I shall watch the deliberations of this body with the keenest interest, and I can assure you, gentlemen of the Senate, that everything that comes from this press table over here can be depended upon—that my experience has taught me that they are always fair and that they are always willing to say as much as the presiding officer desires to have said about himself.

I want to say this much that the two previous sessions have been the most economical sessions of recent years, and it affords me great pleasure, knowing the character of mind of my successor, when I contemplate the fact that under his guidance this will continue and that the sessions under his direction will be on even a more economical basis. Our sessions have been noted for the lack of caucuses. I hate a caucus. A caucus destroys personal liberty of representation. A caucus makes it possible for the minority to enact legislation contrary to the will of the people. A caucus carried to excess is little short of treason to popular representative government.

Gentlemen of the Senate, I am loath to break the bond, the official tie—while I sever my official bond, the ties of friendship, mutual respect and admiration which we have formed can never be broken. That's one of the greatest treasures I will take with me through the years to come—that I enjoy the confidence, respect and love of the members of this Senate. To the citizens of the State of Indiana, I must express my sincere thanks for the trust they have reposed in me as their lieutenant-governor. My eye shall ever be attentive to the best interest of the working of this Senate and of the General Assembly.

Gentlemen of the Senate, I cannot refrain from expressing the opinion that the greatest possible good will come from the working of this General Assembly and that the State of Indiana will profit most if the legislative branch of our government is permitted during the days of deliberation which are before you to function as an independent law making body under the Constitution, free to transact its own business and conduct its own deliberations, unhampered by outside interference from any source whatsoever.

I thank you, gentlemen, and bid you goodbye.

EDGAR D. BUSH.

Address by Lieutenant-Governor Branch.

Nominated by Political parties, elected in the main by the members of the parties which nominated us, yet when we take the oath of office it should be as the Representatives of the people and not of any political party. Not that I mean that a man should have no politics about him when he comes here—not that, for upon questions purely political one should assert his political rights and party affiliations, but upon the great questions that are so vital to the interests and the welfare of the people we represent we should be big enough to look above partisanship and legislate for the people.

In this body are represented the two great political parties of Indiana, both necessary in our State government, and during the session he who serves the people best will serve his party best. Both parties are pledged to the enactment of certain laws demanded by the people and the opportunity is now before us to show them our parties are worthy of their confidence and respect. It is a question for both individual and united consideration and determination. Ninety-six years ago today, January 10th, the General Assembly of Indiana was first held in Indianapolis. Ninety-six years have made a great change in Indiana and today we have one of the greatest and richest states in the Union. Rich in patriotism, literature, art, natural resources, churches, schools, colleges and universities and above all an enlightened and intelligent people. We are their servants and must render them an accounting for our stewardship when our work is ended. And it is but true that the judgment of the people is always correct and certain.

This is the time for conservation, prudence and economy in state affairs. By that I do not mean false economy, but real genuine economy, having in mind the needs of our State institutions and provide for them accordingly, but avoid extravagance, ever remembering that Mr. Tax Payer is entitled to his rights.

It was my privilege in company with the Legislative Visiting Committee to visit a number of the Benevolent and Educational Institutions of the State. We should first take care of our unfortunate ones, and then turn our attention to putting Indiana where she belongs in the Educational world.

I am sure that you all realize the absolute necessity for this without any delay upon our part, and I feel sure both our Benevolent and Educational Institutions will receive your most favorable consideration.

With the message of Governor Goodrich and Governor McCray to guide you I would indeed be presuming to offer you any additional recommendations for needed legislation, but permit me to say that it was my privilege to talk over with Governor Goodrich, perhaps more in detail the contents of his farewell message to the Legislature. His closing words to you are in the interests of the State, his position is just as positive and determined for good government now as at any time during his administration and his message should not only be read and considered by the members of the Legislature but by the people of the State.

Under the administration of Governor Goodrich, during four years of trial and war time sacrifice, we feel the pride of deeds well done and will say that Indiana has been well served and time will bring out more emphatically the real achievements of the administration just closing.

It was also my privilege to talk over with Governor-elect McCray more in detail, the contents of his first message to the Legislature and you will receive it from one who I know is sincere and determined to promote the welfare of the state and to that end he will recommend to you certain laws which in his judgment will bring that desired result. I say recommend to you—you will find his message from beginning to end a recommendation and not a direction for earnest and conscientious consideration and breathing a confidence in you and a desire for co-operation that will make possible the greatest achievement.

I want to urge upon all members of the Legislature a careful study and favorable consideration of his message.

We should be conservative in the matter of legislation. We must, figuratively speaking, keep our feet on the ground. In this period of unrest, of changing conditions such as always comes in consequence of participating in a great war, the opportunity is present and conditions ripe for the sowing and developing of socialistic ideas and tendencies that insiduously but certainly undermine the stability of established government. I believe in progression but with such safe guards and checks that we may avoid the ultra in legislation and maintain the real fundamental principles of our government. For that reason, we should make haste slowly, be sure of the real meaning of every bill that passes this body, ever keeping in mind that a few good laws, absolutely necessary for the maintenance of State Government are far better than a multitude of laws, because when a large number are hurried through in the short time allowed by our constitution, we are sure to find good and bad laws alike fastened upon the people. Let us strive, not to see how many laws we can enact, but rather how few. Let us endeavor to determine what additional laws are really needed if any at all, pass them and quit, but in each and every instance let us know what the measure means before it has our stamp of approval.

A custom has grown up in this body that I want to call your attention to in connection with what I have just said, and that is the Omnibus Bill Practice, by which on motion, ten, fifteen, or twenty bills will be passed at one time, by one roll call, and of which bills, the members do not and cannot know their contents and meaning and what I would call guessing them off. Gentlemen, guessing off law that is to be fastened upon the people of Indiana, is not right, and to prevent just such a thing as that, the makers of the constitution of Indiana in section 18 of article IV said:

"Every bill shall be read by sections, on three several days in each house; unless, in case of emergency, two-thirds of the House where such bills may be pending shall, by a vote of yeas and nays, deem it expedient to dispense with this rule, but the reading of a bill by sections, on its final passage, shall in no case be dispensed with; and the vote on the passage of every bill or joint resolution shall be taken by yeas and nays."

As I construe that language, every bill must be read by section before a vote on its passage and no rule or motion of the Senate can change, alter or do away with that provision of the constitution and whenever more than one bill is passed at one roll call you have suspended the constitution of this State which every one knows this body can not do legally.

And unless you can show me that I am wrong, I shall take the position that all bills on third reading must be voted on separately and one at a time, and I am sure that we shall all then have a more intelligent understanding of what we are voting upon.

I know that the excuse for the Omnibus Bill has been the jam that comes in the closing hours of the session.

Gentlemen, if you know that there will be no wholesale passage of bills the last week of the session I am sure you will strive to push things harder in the earlier part of the session and during the last days you will select and ask for those bills to be acted upon which in your judgment are the most important and concerning which you know and the selection will not be left to guess or conjecture on your part. In other words, you will know your bills and the other members will have greater confidence in your selection and be more willing to rely upon your judgment.

The jam of bills in the closing days is often due to bills being held in committees until near the close of the session and then dumped into the Senate when time alone would make it impossible for the Senate to consider them or for the bills to pass through the different stages of legislation.

If there is any place where vicious legislation can and does slip through the legislature it is by means of the Omnibus Bill Practice and I am sure that it is the desire of every Senator to avoid that.

This jam can be avoided by the committees considering and reporting upon the bills assigned to them as provided by the rules governing this body.

By our rules a bill must be reported back to the Senate after six days. If this rule is adhered to strictly there would be a constant and steady stream of bills coming from the various committees for the consideration of the Senate and no cause for a jam or need for an Omnibus Bill.

It is my hope that we may in the earlier part of this session do the proportional part we ought to do and not try to do sixty days work in the last ten days of the session. It was my privilege to preside over the House of Representatives in 1907 and while between seven and eight hundred bills were introduced in the House we were not forced to have a single night session or any Omnibus Bills and I am sure that by the proper cooperation and determination on the part of all of us we can maintain the same kind of a program this session.

My attention has been called to a practice carried on in connection with past legislature known as the Bill Factory. For the benefit of the new members I wish to say that means that certain employees of the Senate would sell copies of bills to parties, individuals, corporations, companies, just so the price fixed was paid. This netted those employees hundreds of dollars in addition to the salary paid them by the State, took their attention off their real duties and crippled the working force and the efficiency of the Senate.

This must stop, yet I realize any association or individual who might be effected by any contemplated legislation is entitled to know what has been submitted, to the Senate for its consideration. To put it plainer, perhaps, I believe that the public is entitled to know what bills have been introduced and how they will effect the public. Then if we stop the Bill Factory what shall be substituted in its place?

We have a Legislative Reference Bureau here in the State House which is efficiently managed and capable of taking over the work of furnishing copies of bills to any one who might need or want the same. The same results as far as those interested will be met and the working force of the Senate not be disturbed or tempted.

Therefore, I recommend that this body by proper action provide the necessary State machinery by which this legislative Bureau make the proper arrangements to meet this situation in a way that will give the best results from the view point of the Legislature and the public.

In connection with or kindred to what I have just said let me add this for the benefit of the employees, especially, and incidentally for the members of this body. A committee designated as the committee employing assistants and incurring indebtedness has had and will during this session the duty of employing and discharging the employees of the Senate.

I am, I suppose, you could say, ex-officio, a member of that committee and have attended the meetings and discussed with them the matters of employment for this session. Permit me to say, that efficiency must come first.

It has been gratifying to the members of this committee to know that the members of this body have taken that view of the matter and those of us who have been in position to see and know feel that we have and will have the backing of the State in our efforts to give to you and the senate the best service possible.

There is one thing in particular that this committee will not stand for, and which the Presiding Officer not only endorses, but will publicly claim or assume the responsibility for, and that is the stand, that no employee shall use his position for or in any way engage in the art of lobbying.

To the employees I wish to say that you are employed to discharge certain duties and if you are not satisfied with them quit, if you do not measure up to the standard set by this committee, I know you will move. I have told this committee that each and every employee shall be measured by the efficiency stick and when he or she, no matter which member is back of the employee, fails to measure up, that a warrant will be drawn of an amount sufficient to get them home. In plain English, I am behind this committee, in what they do in the discharge of the duties of the committee.

Each employee when he goes on duty will be told how long he is to be employed and there is no use for him or her to come to this committee for an extension of time and any Senator who is importuned by his appointee for an extension of time may say I can do nothing for you on account of the position taken by that committee, and I might add, Senators, you will avoid any embarrassment to yourself by not attempting an extension for it will not be. That matter is closed as long as I am on that committee.

To the members of the House and Senate I wish to say that I shall be glad to see you and talk with you at any time upon any matters of legislation providing you consider me only as a citizen and not as the Lieutenant-Governor of Indiana and I hope, I know, there will be the proper co-operation between the two branches of the Legislature, that will expedite the business between the two houses, prevent dead locks or misunderstandings and bring results, that genuine good fellowship can attain, and when I say good fellowship I mean not only as individual members but the entire organization.

I appreciate the honor of being Lieutenant-Governor of this my native state and the great responsibilities that accompany the office of President of this Senate and sincerely ask the co-operation and aid of each and every one of you and my hope is that my actions, yes, our actions, may receive, not only the approval of the people we represent, but that of the Divine Providence in whom I put my trust.

PROPOSAL No. 4.

That article four (IV) of the Constitution of the State of Indiana be amended by adding thereto a new section to be designated and numbered as section thirty-one (31) to read as follows:

Section 31. The General Assembly shall not appropriate any money out of the treasury except in accordance with the following provisions:

SUB-SECTION A.

Every appropriation bill shall be either a budget bill, or a supplementary appropriation bill, as hereinafter mentioned.

SUB-SECTION B.

First. Within ten days after the convening of the General Assembly, except in the case of a newly elected governor and then within fifteen days after his inauguration, unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly for the session at which the budget is to be submitted, the governor shall submit to the General Assembly two budgets, one for each of the ensuing fiscal years. Each budget shall contain a complete plan for proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the particular fiscal year to which it related; and shall show the estimated surplus or deficit of revenues at the end of such year. Accompanying each budget shall be a statement showing: (1) the revenues and expenditures for each of the two fiscal years next preceding; (2) the current assets, liabilities, reserves and surplus or deficit of the state; (3) the debts and funds of the state; (4) an estimate of the state's financial condition as of the beginning and end of each of the fiscal years covered by the two budgets above provided; (5) any explanation the governor may desire to make as to the important features of any budget and any suggestions as to methods for the reduction or increase of the state's revenues.

Second. Each budget shall be divided into two parts, and the first shall be designated "governmental appropriations" and shall embrace an itemized estimate of the appropriations: (1) for the General Assembly as certified to the Governor in the manner hereinafter provided; (2) for the executive department; (3) for the judiciary department as certified to the Governor by the auditor of state; (4) to pay and discharge the principal and interest of any debt of the State of Indiana created in conformity with the constitution, and all laws enacted in pursuance thereof; (5) for the salaries payable by the state under the constitution and laws of the state; (6) for the aid of public schools or higher institutions of learning in conformity with the constitution and the laws of the state; (7) for such other purposes as are set forth in the constitution and laws made in pursuance thereof.

Third. The second part shall be designated "general appropriations", and shall include all other estimates or appropriations.

The Governor shall deliver to the presiding officer of each house the budgets and a bill for all the proposed appropriations of the budgets clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each house shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein, and such bill shall be known as the "budget bill". The Governor may, before final action thereon by the General Assembly, amend or supplement either of said budgets to correct an oversight or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the General Assembly, by delivering such an amendment or supplement to the presiding officer of each house; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as a modification of or a substitution for any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may affect.

The General Assembly shall not amend the budget bill so as to affect any lawful obligation of the state contracted in pursuance of any provision of the constitution or the laws enacted in pursuance thereof, or so as to create a deficit but may amend the bill by increasing or diminishing the items therein relating to the General Assembly, and by increasing the items therein relating to the judiciary, but, except as hereinbefore specified, may not alter the said bill except to strike out or reduce items therein: Provided, however, That the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be increased or diminished during his term of office.

Fourth. The Governor and such representatives of the executive departments, boards, officers and commissions of the state expending or applying for state's money, as have been designated by the Governor for this purpose, shall have the right, and when requested by either house of the General Assembly, or any duly authorized committee of either house, it shall be their duty to appear and be heard with respect to any budget bill during the consideration thereof and to answer inquiries relative thereto.

SUB-SECTION C.

Neither house shall consider other appropriations until the budget bill has been finally acted upon by both houses, and no such other appropriations shall be valid except in accordance with the provisions following:

Whereas, There is a well-defined movement sponsored by Democratic and Republican leaders to repeal the Primary Law, and,

Whereas, The repeal of this law would limit the political rights of women as well as men, and,

Whereas, It is only through the Primary system that the people can have the fullest expression of choice for public office, and,

Whereas, The women of the country having been so recently given the right of franchise,

Therefore: Be it resolved, That the Anderson League of Woman Voters herewith enters a solemn protest against the repeal of the Primary Law, for the reasons that such a step would mean to the women of Indiana partial disfranchisement which would prevent women from giving to public affairs the chief benefits of Woman Suffrage, namely:

The selection of honest and capable men and women as candidates for public office, and,

Be it further resolved, That we present the Governor and Governor-elect of the State, the members of the State Legislature, the Chairman of the Democratic and Republican committees, copies of this resolution, and.

Be it further resolved, That the attention of the State League of Women Voters be called to the importance of immediate action in line with the spirit of this resolution, with the view of preserving to the women of the State as well as the men, the fullest political opportunities and rights.

(Signed) THE ANDERSON LEAGUE OF WOMAN VOTERS,

By Cecil R. Chittenden, Pres.,

Bernice M. Jackson, Secretary.

Senator Steele offered the following Senate Joint Resolution No. 4, and moved its adoption:

MR. PRESIDENT:

I offered the following resolution and move its adoption:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 4.

A joint resolution proposing an investigation of the Building Products Industry, or so called Building Trust within the State of Indiana, the method, sale and distribution of its products, the prices charged and fixing of such prices, whether by arbitrary and unlawful means, and to create an investigation committee to carry out the purpose of this resolution, directing that where laws governing such sale or distribution are violated that those guilty be brought before a proper court and justice had. Granting certain powers, defining certain duties and declaring an emergency.

PREAMBLE.

Whereas, There is sufficient reason to believe that there exists within the State of Indiana, certain ramifications of the so-called National Building Supply Trust, and that there are certain organizations within said state which control the price, sale, distribution and source of supply of sand, gravel, cement, lumber and other building supplies, that the prices charged are unfair and exorbitant and that because of such unfair and exorbitant prices the progress, health and happiness of the citizens of Indiana is held in abeyance. That such unfair practice prevents the construction of and repair of homes, the building of roads, bridges, needed improvements or buildings within the State, thereby continuing the era of high prices and adding to an already cruel burden.

SECTION ONE.

Therefore, Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That an Investigating Committee, consisting of five members of such General Assembly, be selected by the Governor of Indiana forthwith upon the taking effect of this resolution, three of whom shall be members of the Senate and two of whom shall be members of the House of Representatives of such Assembly of the State of Indiana. That such Investigating Committee shall immediately after such appointment proceed to make a fair and impartial investigation of such Building Supply Trust, or combination, and ascertain whether its prices, means of distribution or other methods of doing business within the State of Indiana are lawful and fair or otherwise, and report such findings to a court of proper jurisdiction and provide for the proper prosecution of such unlawful acts, if any be found.

SECTION TWO.

Be it further resolved that, if on the adjournment of this, the Seventy-Second General Assembly, that the purpose and procedure involved in the consummation of the investigation be not finished, then in that event that the Attorney General of the State of Indiana be directed and is hereby empowered and ordered to proceed with this investigation in a manner and with such assistance as he may deem necessary to the fair and impartial conclusion of such investigation. Such committee of five members of such General Assembly shall immediately if terminated as aforesaid, turn over to said Attorney General for his use, all records, papers, evidence, or other matter which he may deem necessary as their successor for the proper continuance of said investigation.

SECTION THREE.

Be it further resolved, That such Committee shall have and exercise the power to subpoena witnesses, require witnesses to appear and give testimony and to administer oaths or affirmation as such witnesses, under the same rules and regulations which are applicable to proceedings in the circuit court of their state. In the event any witnesses refuse to appear when duly notified, or to testify when present, such witnesses shall be subject to proceedings for contempt under the rules and regulations which govern in cases of depositions before Notaries Public in civil actions pending in the circuit court.

SECTION FOUR.

Be it further resolved, That said Investigating Committee upon the taking effect of the resolution shall proceed to investigate by public hearing of any citizen or group of citizens under oath claiming to have been wronged within the purpose of the resolution. Such evidence when taken in the proper manner under oath, or as taken in the circuit courts of this state shall forthwith be placed before the Attorney General of Indiana, and he shall proceed at the first opportunity to place same before a court of competent jurisdiction and use the best efforts of his office to secure a conviction thereof. Provided, further, That no evidence shall be acted upon or suits instituted which in the opinion of the Attorney General such evidence is insufficient to warrant reasonable expectation of securing a conviction. Provided the Attorney General shall make public upon demand of any newspapers such evidence and his reasons for claiming conviction improbable.

SECTION FIVE.

Be it further resolved, That an emergency exists and that this resolution be and is in full power and effect immediately after its passage.

STEELE, Senator.

Which was read the first time and referred to Committee on Corporations.

Senator Kiper offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

I offer the following Resolution and move its adoption:

The information having come to this organization that all road work in the State is to be suspended and no contracts to be let during the year of 1921, by the State Highway Department, and feeling that this will work a very great hardship on unemployed labor and that at this time feeling of all things necessary for the good of the State, it would be better to continue the road program as mapped out by the State Highway Department and in this way carry out said program that will give employment to hundreds of unemployed men, and this will greatly relieve the present situation in the State of Indiana, the Board of Directors of this organization, the Evansville Chamber of Commerce, of Evansville, Indiana, have passed the following resolutions in a meeting this 12th day of January, 1921:

Whereas, It is of much importance at this time that the problem of our unemployed be given serious consideration and it is of such importance that the Federal authorities are using their efforts in attracting attention to same, and

Whereas, An endeavor is being made by said authorities to find a solution by every available suggestion which will deal equitably with the employer and employee and which will benefit the people at large, all of whom are deeply concerned, and,

Whereas, At the present time, there is available for the use of the State Highway Commission approximately Five Million ($5,000,000.00) Dollars for highway work and many counties in the State have made an addition to this amount and have decided on special programs of construction aggregating thousands of dollars and many other Counties will consider programs of a similar nature in the near future, be it,

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Indiana, which was agreed to by the Seventy-First General Assembly and referred to this General Assembly, be agreed to by this the Seventy-Second General Assembly of the State of Indiana.

That article four (IV) of the Constitution of the State of Indiana be amended by adding thereto a new section to be designated and numbered as section thirty-one (31) to read as follows: Section 31. The General Assembly shall not appropriate any money out of the treasury except in accordance with the following provisions:

SUB-SECTION A.

Every appropriation bill shall be either a budget bill, or a supplementary appropriation bill, as hereinafter mentioned.

SUB-SECTION B.

First. Within ten days after the convening of the General Assembly, except in the case of a newly elected governor, and then within fifteen days after his inauguration, unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly for the session at which the budget is to be submitted, the Governor shall submit to the General Assembly two budgets, one for each of the ensuing fiscal years. Each budget shall contain a complete plan for proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for the particular fiscal year to which it relates; and shall show the estimated surplus or deficit of revenues at the end of such year. Accompanying each budget shall be a statement showing: (1) The revenues and expenditures for each of the two fiscal years next preceding; (2) the current assets, liabilities, reserves and surplus or deficit of the state; (3) the debts and funds of the state; (4) an estimate of the state's financial condition as of the beginning and end of each of the fiscal years covered by the two budgets above provided; (5) any explanation the Governor may desire to make as to the important features of any budget and any suggestions, as to methods for the reduction or increase of the state's revenue.

Second. Each budget shall be divided into two parts, and the first shall be designated "governmental appropriations" and shall embrace an itemized estimate of the appropriations: (1) For the General Assembly as certified to the Governor in the manner hereinafter provided; (2) for the executive department; (3) for the judiciary department as certified to the Governor by the auditor of state; (4) to pay and discharge the principal and interest of any debt of the State of Indiana created in conformity with the Constitution, and all laws enacted in pursuance thereof; (5) for the salaries payable by the state under the Constitution and laws of the state; (6) for the aid of public schools or higher institutions of learning in conformity with the Constitution and the laws of the state; (7) for such other purposes as are set forth in the Constitution and laws made in pursuance thereof.

Third. The second part shall be designated "general appropriations," and shall include all other estimates of appropriations.

The Governor shall deliver to the presiding officer of each house the budgets and a bill for all the proposed appropriations of the budgets clearly itemized and classified; and the presiding officer of each house shall promptly cause said bill to be introduced therein, and such bill shall be known as the "budget bill". The Governor may, before final action thereon by the General Assembly, amend or supplement either of said budgets to correct an oversight or in case of an emergency, with the consent of the General Assembly, by delivering such an amendment or supplement to the presiding officer of each house; and such amendment or supplement shall thereby become a part of said budget bill as an addition to the items of said bill or as a modification of or a substitute for any item of said bill such amendment or supplement may effect.

The General Assembly shall not amend the budget bill so as to affect any lawful obligation of the state contracted in pursuance of any provision of the Constitution or the laws enacted in pursuance thereof, or so as to create a deficit but may amend the bill by increasing or diminishing the items therein relating to the General Assembly, and by increasing the items therein relating to the judiciary, but, except as hereinbefore specified, may not alter the said bill except to strike out or reduce items therein: Provided, however, That the salary or compensation of any public officer shall not be increased or diminished during his term of office.

Fourth. The Governor and such representatives of the executive departments, boards, officers, and commissions of the state expending or applying for state's money, as have been designated by the Governor for this purpose, shall have the right, and when requested by either house of the General Assembly, or any duly authorized committee of either house, it shall be their duty to appear and be heard with respect to any budget bill during the consideration thereof and to answer inquiries relative thereto.

SUB-SECTION C.

Neither house shall consider other appropriations until the budget bill has been finally acted upon by both houses, and no such other appropriations shall be valid except in accordance with the provisions following: (1) Every such appropriation shall be embodied in a separate bill limited to some single work, object or purpose therein stated and called herein a supplementary appropriation bill; (2) each supplementary appropriation bill shall provide the revenue necessary to pay the appropriation thereby made by a tax, direct or indirect to be laid and collected as shall be directed in said bill, unless it appears from such budget that there is sufficient revenue available; (3) no supplementary appropriation bill shall become a law unless it be passed in each house by a vote of the majority of all the members elected to each house and the yeas and nays recorded on its final passage; (4) each supplementary appropriation bill shall be presented to the governor of the state as provided in section fourteen of article five of the Constitution and thereafter all the provisions of said section shall apply.

Nothing in this amendment shall be construed as preventing the General Assembly from passing at any time, in accordance with the provisions of section twenty-five (25) of article four (IV) of the Constitution, and subject to the Governor's power of approval, as provided in section fourteen (14) of article five (V) of the Constitution, an appropriation bill to provide for the payment of any obligation of the State of Indiana within the protection of section 10 article I of the Constitution of the United States.

SUB-SECTION D.

First. If the budget shall not have been fully acted upon by the General Assembly three days before the expiration of its regular session, the Governor may, and it shall be his duty to issue a proclamation extending the session for such further period as may, in his judgment, be necessary for the passage of such bill; but no other matter than such bill shall be considered during such extended session except a provision for the cost thereof.

Second. The Governor, for the purpose of making up his budgets, shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to require from the proper state officials, including herein all executive departments, all executive and administrative officers, bureaus, boards, commissions, and agencies expending or supervising the expenditure of, and institutions applying for state moneys and appropriations, such itemized estimates and other information, in such form and at such time as he shall direct. The estimates for the legislative department, certified by the presiding officer of each house, of the judiciary, as certified by the auditor of state, and for the public schools or higher institutions of learning as certified by the state superintendent of public instruction or the administrative head of such institution shall be transmitted to the Governor in such form and at such time as he shall direct and shall be included in the budget.

The Governor may provide for public hearings on all estimates and may require the attendance at such hearings of representatives of all agencies, and all institutions applying for state moneys. After such public hearings, he may, in his discretion, revise all estimates except those for the legislative and judiciary departments, and for the public schools as provided by law.

Third. The General Assembly may, from time to time, enact such laws, not inconsistent with this section, as may be necessary and proper to carry out its provisions.

Fourth. In the event of an inconsistency between any of the provisions of this section and any of the other provisions of the Constitution, the provisions of this section shall prevail. But nothing herein shall be construed as preventing the Governor from calling special sessions of the legislature as provided by section 9 of article IV, or as preventing the General Assembly at such special sessions from considering any emergency appropriation or appropriations.

If any item of any appropriation bill passed under the provisions of this section shall be held invalid upon any ground, such invalidity shall not affect the legality of the bill or of any other item of such bill or bills.

Section 2. The Secretary of the Senate is hereby ordered to spread this resolution and said proposals in full on the Journal of this Senate, and thereupon to transmit said proposals to the House of Representatives for its action thereon.

But no bill shall be presented to the Governor within two days next previous to the final adjournment of the General Assembly. The Governor shall have power to approve or disapprove any item or items of any bill making appropriations of money, embracing distinct items, and the part or parts of the bill approved shall be the law, and the item or items of appropriation disapproved shall be void unless repassed according to the rules and limitations prescribed in this section for the passage of bills over the executive veto. A Joint Resolution proposing an investigation of the building products industry, or so-called building trust within the State of Indiana, the method, sale and distribution of its products, the price charged and fixing of such prices, whether by arbitrary and unlawful means, and to create an investigation committee to carry out the purpose of this resolution, directing that where laws governing such sale or distribution are violated that those guilty be brought before a proper court and justice had. Granting certain powers, defining certain duties and declaring an emergency.

PREAMBLE.

Whereas, There is sufficient reason to believe that there exists within the State of Indiana, certain ramifications of the so-called national building supply trust, and that there are certain organizations within said state which control the price, sale, distribution and source of supply of sand, gravel, cement, lumber and other building supplies. That the prices charged are unfair and exorbitant and that because of such unfair and exorbitant prices the progress, health and happiness of the citizens of Indiana is held in abeyance. That such unfair practice prevents the construction of and repair of homes, the building of roads, bridges, needed improvements or buildings within the state, thereby continuing the era of high prices and adding to an already cruel burden.

Section 1. Therefore, Be It Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That an investigating committee, consisting of five members of such general assembly, be selected by the governor of Indiana forthwith upon the taking effect of this resolution, three of whom shall be members of the senate and two of whom shall be members of the House of Representatives of such assembly of the State of Indiana. That such investigating committee shall immediately after such appointment proceed to make a fair and impartial investigation of such building supply trust, or combination and ascertain whether its prices, means of distribution or other methods of doing business within the State of Indiana are lawful and fair or otherwise, and report such findings to a court of proper jurisdiction and provide for the proper prosecution of such unlawful acts, if any be found.

Section 2. Be it further resolved, That if on the adjournment of this the Seventy-second General Assembly, that the purpose and procedure involved in the consummation of the purpose of this resolution be not finished, then in that event that the attorney-general of the State of Indiana be directed and is hereby empowered and ordered to proceed with the investigation in a manner and with such assistance as he may deem necessary to the fair and impartial conclusion of such investigation. Such committee of five members of such general assembly shall immediately, if terminated as aforesaid, turn over to said attorney-general for his use, all records, papers, evidence, or other matter which he may deem necessary as their successor for the proper continuance of said investigation.

Section 3. Be it further resolved, That such committee shall have and exercise the power to subpoena witnesses, require witnesses to appear and give testimony and to administer oaths or affirmation as such witnesses, under the same rules and regulations which are applicable to proceedings in the circuit court of their state. In the event any witnesses refuse to appear when duly notified, or to testify when present, such witnesses shall be subject to proceedings for contempt under the rules and regulations which govern in cases of depositions before notary publics in civil actions pending in the circuit court.

Section 4. Be it further resolved. That said investigation committee immediately upon the taking effect of this resolution proceed to investigate by public hearing of any citizen or group of citizens under oath claiming to have been wronged within the purpose of this resolution. Such evidence when taken in the proper manner under oath, or as taken in the circuit courts of this state shall forthwith be placed before the attorney-general of Indiana, and he shall proceed at the first opportunity to place the same before a court of competent jurisdiction and use the best efforts of his office to secure a conviction thereon: Provided further, That no evidence shall be acted upon or suits instituted when in the opinion of the attorney-general such evidence is insufficient to warrant reasonable expectation of securing a conviction: Provided, The attorney-general shall make public upon demand of any newspapers such evidence and his reasons for claiming conviction impossible.

Section 5. Be it further resolved, That an emergency exists and that this resolution be and is in full power and effect immediately after its passage.

Preamble: Whereas there is a great and growing lake, river and rail commerce at, near and through what is known as the Calumet region in the so-called Chicago district in the States of Illinois and Indiana, which commerce is not only local but also interstate, national and international; and

Whereas this location is also at the end of the deep water navigation of the Great Lakes, also at one of the terminals of the Great Lakes-Gulf waterway, via the Calumet-Sag Canal, the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and other waterways; and

Whereas with the opening of the St. Lawrence waterway the proposed harbor, hereinafter described, will become available to vessels from the ocean ports of the world; and

Whereas the said location is but a few miles from the center of population of the United States; and

Whereas the said location and juxtaposition of said Wolf Lake and Lake Michigan are such as to make this site ideally adapted for the development and operation of a public interstate transfer harbor; and

Whereas the U. S. Whereas it is desirable that additional information and data be secured by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana before proceeding upon the appointment of a harbor board or arranging otherwise for the development and construction of such proposed public interstate harbor; therefore be it

Whereas, Coal and clay mining is one of the chief industries of the State of Indiana ;

Whereas, No courses of instruction are given by the institution of education in the State of Indiana to qualify students as mining engineers, and the said mining industry in the State of Indiana would be greatly benefited, and the natural resources of the State of Indiana could be much better conserved if technically trained mining engineers were available for employment in said mining industry ; therefore—

PREAMBLE.

Whereas, it is shown and made to appear to the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, that one Orland E. Way, formerly of Winchester, Indiana, a building contractor, on the 30th day of October, 1916, made and entered into a contract in writing for the erection and construction of a Centralized School Building in and for Wayne School Township, Randolph County, Indiana, with one John M. Shockney the then Trustee of and for said Township, at and for the price and sum of fourteen thousand eight hundred thirty-six ($14,836.00) dollars, under and by the terms and provisions of which said Contractor was obliged to furnish and supply all labor and materials therefor: and—

Whereas, it is further shown and made to appear to the General Assembly that Samuel E. Williams, Garfield Hiatt, Benjamin F. Boltz, Albert E. Fudge and George E. Leggett (now deceased) then citizens of Randolph County, Indiana, above named in the title hereof, became sureties upon the bond of the said Orland E. Way, for the faithful performance of such contract, and that the said Orland E. Way was insolvent and financially worthless, and by reason of rapidly increasing material and labor prices, and impairment of shipping service, brought about by war conditions soon following the date of said contract, the said named sureties were obliged to and did assume said building contract and constructed and completed said centralized school building, known and designated as the "Wilson School" for and on behalf of said School Township, to the full and complete satisfaction of the Trustee thereof, and the patrons of said school and the citizens of said township, and the said Trustee has paid to said sureties the full and final estimate upon the basis of the full contract price for such schoolhouse construction and completion: and—

Whereas, it is further made to appear that on account of the tremendous increase and advance in price of both labor and materials, and the availability to obtain the same entering into said work and contract soon following the letting of said contract, occasioned as aforesaid by war conditions, to an amount at least of twenty-five percent in excess of the costs of such work and materials and transportation opportunities during the pre-war period, the actual cost of the construction and completion of said school building in labor and material entering into the same, and which did enter therein and of which the said School Township did actually receive the benefit thereof, was more than twenty-five per cent greater and in excess of the original contract price therefor, which is shown by the certificate of the Architect of and for said building, and thereby said sureties suffered and sustained an actual and aggregate loss on said account of three thousand seven hundred and nine dollars, and whereby said School Township actually benefitted in the sum and amount of three thousand and seven hundred and nine ($3,709.00) dollars, in addition to said original contract price, and all of which was the result of the cause aforesaid, and was not due to any failure or fault of said contractor or sureties, but resulted wholly from conditions developing after the letting of said contract which could not be contemplated or foreseen at the time of said letting and over which said contractor and said sureties had no control: and—

Whereas, A representative number of the citizens of the said School Township of Wayne, Randolph County, Indiana, have petitioned the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, for the passage of a law for the relief and reimbursement of said sureties, refunding to them the said amount so lost, being the excess value received by said School Township above said contract, price, which said relief can only be had by means of an act of the legislature: Therefore—

No person, firm or corporation shall transact any business of the character contemplated in this section, as agent for another, unless the principal of such agent shall have complied with the provisions of this act and shall have received from the auditor of state a certificate as hereinbefore provided.

Section 2. Such person, firm or corporation shall make and execute a bond payable to the State of Indiana in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) and shall file such bond with the auditor of state, and such bond shall be conditioned for the faithful holding and transmission of moneys so received by the principal and conditioned for the selling of steamship or railroad tickets which shall be in all respects valid and genuine, or conditioned for both, if the principal be engaged in both such lines of business: Provided, however, that this act shall not apply to common carriers, banks, trust companies, and savings associations regularly organized under the laws of the State of Indiana, or under the laws of the United States; nor, as to giving bond, to any person, firm or corporation which shall, on investigation by the auditor of state, be, by the auditor of state, found to be of such financial soundness and standing that, in the judgment of the auditor of state, such a bond is not needed for the protection of the customers of such person, firm or corporation doing one or both of said classes of business; and the auditor of state shall issue to such persons, firms or corporations, as are so found financially and otherwise of such standing a permit such as is issued to a dealer who has given the bond. The bond of a surety company, if approved by the auditor of state, may be taken by him. The state, upon the relation of any party aggrieved, may sue and recover for the use of such aggrieved person on such bond in any court of competent jurisdiction, but the giving of the bond shall not relieve the dealer or principal from any liability he would have been under had no bond been given or had this statute not been enacted.

Section 4. The auditor of state shall keep a book to be known as a "Bond Book" wherein he shall place in alphabetical order all permits issued hereunder by him, the date thereof, the name of the recipient thereof and his place of residence, the place or places for the transaction of the business, the name or names of the sureties on his bond, and the name of the officer before whom the bond was executed or acknowledged. Such record shall be open to public inspection. The auditor shall collect a fee of five dollars ($5) for each permit issued by him in pursuance of the provisions of this act which fee shall be covered into the general fund of the state treasury.

SENATE RESOLUTION.

Senator Swain offered the following resolution and moves its adoption:

Whereas, It has been represented to the General Assembly that the educational standards of the State of Indiana are much below what they should be, and many bills looking toward the raising of the standards and qualifications of teachers and superintendents and requiring a large expenditure of public funds have been presented for our consideration, with a view to elevating said standards and increasing the efficiency of our educators and educational institutions; and

Whereas, Apparently a large part of the activities and interests of our High School are directed towards athletics and the promotion and playing of basket-ball, to the great detriment of the academic instruction; now Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the State Board of Education be requested and directed to investigate the subject of scholastic athletics as between High Schools, with a view toward curtailing the length of the season and limiting the number of games which may be engaged in;

Also, to inquire if the sport of basket ball has not become too largely professionalized and if so, to make such rules and recommendations governing the sport as would be conducive to the better promotion of our entire educational system.

PREAMBLE.

Whereas, There is a great and growing lake, river and rail commerce at, near and through what is known as the Calumet region in the so-called Chicago district in the states of Illinois and Indiana, which commerce is not only local but also interstate, national and international; and

Whereas, This location is also at the end of the deep water navigation of the Great Lakes, also at one of the terminals of the Great Lakes-Gulf waterway, via the Calumet-Sag Canal, the Illinois and Mississippi rivers and other water-ways; and

Whereas, With the opening of the St. Lawrence waterway the proposed harbor, hereinafter described, will become available to vessels from the ocean ports of the world; and

Whereas, Said location is at the greatest center of the world and also in the midst of the said Calumet industrial district containing more than four hundred factories; and

Whereas, The said location is but a few miles from the center of population of the United States; and

Whereas, The said location and juxtaposition of said Wolf Lake and Lake Michigan are such as to make this site ideally adapted for the development and operation of a public interstate transfer harbor; and

Whereas, The U. S. Engineers, recognizing the necessity and feasibility of the proposed public interstate harbor, having prepared plans for the same, contemplating the construction by the United States of an outward protecting breakwater in Lake Michigan approximately three and one-half miles in length at a cost of approximately six million dollars ($6,000,000) and dredging operations by the United States shoreward of said break-water in and to the proposed inner basin in Wolf Lake at an additional cost, providing that suitable cooperative harbor construction in and near said Wolf Lake be undertaken and performed by another proper public body, said plans having been approved by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War; and

Whereas, It is desirable that additional information and data be secured by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana before proceeding upon the appointment of a harbor board or arranging otherwise for the development and construction of such proposed public interstate harbor; therefore, be it

Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That the Interstate Harbor Commission of Illinois and Indiana be appointed to investigate and report upon the feasibility of the said proposed public interstate harbor, the said plan therefor, the estimated cost thereof, proposed method of development and management, estimated receipts, operating expenses and all other data germane to said project for the information of the General Assembly; that said commission shall consist of five commissioners to be appointed as follows: Two commissioners to be appointed by the Governor of the State of Indiana, two commissioners to be appointed by the Governor of the State of Illinois, one commissioner to be appointed by the Chief of Engineers, U. S. A., and the Secretary of War; and be it further

Resolved, That for the purpose of paying expenses hereafter to be incurred by the said Commission, the General Assembly proceed to make an appropriation of Twenty-five Thousand ($25,000) Dollars. That said Commissioners so appointed shall serve without pay except their actual expenses incurred while engaged in the performance of their work as such Commissioners. Said five commissioners shall elect as president of the said commission at their first meeting attended by all five of said commissioners, which meeting shall be held as soon as may be after the passage and approval of the Act of the General Assembly of Indiana appropriating for said expenses and as soon as may be after the passage and approval of a similar Act appropriating for said expenses by the people of the State of Illinois represented in the General Assembly, as hereinafter described. The said interstate Harbor Commission of Illinois and Indiana shall establish headquarters and shall employ such engineering, legal, clerical and other assistants as may be necessary to conduct such investigations and shall appropriate and pay for the same out of the said total appropriations; and the said commission shall present a full and complete printed report of its investigations and recommendations to the next General Assembly of the State of Indiana, the next General Assembly of the State of Illinois, the Chief of Engineers, U. S. A., and Secretary of War and one thousand additional printed copies of said report for public distribution; and be it further

Resolved, That this resolution and proposed appropriation shall not take force and effect until an equal appropriation for the said purposes be made by the State of Illinois and until the Governor of the State of Indiana, the Governor of the State of Illinois and the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War shall have appointed the said commissioners or commissioner designated to be appointed by them respectively; and be it further

Resolved, That the sum so appropriated shall be paid out upon an itemized statement of expenditures by the Commission approved by the President of the Commission and presented to the Auditor of State for his approval and presented to the Governor of the State of Indiana for his approval. Upon such approval by the President of the Commission, Auditor of State and Governor of the State of Indiana, the Auditor of State shall draw a warrant upon the State Treasurer for the payment of the sum so provided out of the funds so appropriated, and any sum remaining in the treasury of State belonging to said fund so appropriated, after two years is to revert back to the general fund of the State Treasury.

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be presented to the legislature of the State of Illinois, the House and Senate thereof, the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War with the request that each and all of them take such action in the premises as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this resolution.

SENATE MOTION.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I move to amend Senate Bill No. 230 by striking out all after the Enacting Clause in section one (1), line two (2), and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

That a state motion picture commission be, and the same is hereby created, to be composed of three (3) commissioners appointed by the governor, one (1) of whom shall be designated as chairman. Each commissioner shall hold office for four (4) years, except that when the commission is first constituted one (1) commissioner shall be appointed for two (2) years; one (1) for three (3) years, and one for four (4) years. Each commissioner shall thereafter be appointed for a full term of four (4) years, except that any person appointed to fill a vacancy shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of the member whom he shall succeed. The salary of the chairman of said commission shall be fixed by the governor, not to exceed three thousand dollars ($3,000) per year and the salary of each of the other commissioners shall be fixed by the governor, not to exceed two thousand, five hundred dollars ($2,500) per year.

Section 2. The commission may appoint, subject to the approval of the Governor, advisory commissioners to advise and assist in the examination and regulation of moving picture films, who shall hold office during the pleasure of the commission and shall serve without compensation, but may be paid their necessary expenses while doing work for the commission.

Section 3. The commission may appoint, subject to the approval of the Governor, deputy commissioners, the compensation of each to be fixed by the Governor, who will make due allowance for their necessary expenses incurred in the work of the commission.

Section 4. No person shall be appointed commissioner, advisory commissioner or deputy commissioner who, directly or indirectly, has any pecuniary interest in the exhibition of motion pictures, or in any film exchange, or corporation engaged in the furnishing or manufacturing of motion picture films, or the advertisement of the same.

Section 5. The board of public buildings and property shall provide suitable quarters for the accommodation of the state motion picture commission created by this act, in the City of Indianapolis, Indiana. The state motion picture commission, however, shall have authority to open branch offices for the convenience and accommodation of the moving picture industry at any place other than Indianapolis it may choose, provided that the fees collected by any such branch office shall be sufficient to meet all the expenses, including salaries, incurred in the operation of such branch office.

Section 6. The commission shall license every film submitted to it and intended for exhibition in the State of Indiana, unless it finds that such film is obscene, indecent, immoral, sacrilegious, inhuman, that it depicts a bull fight, or a prize fight, or is of such a character that its exhibition would tend to impair the health or corrupt the morals of children or adults or incite to crime or race hatred.

The commission may license any film, subject to such excision or alterations as the commission may direct and require upon proof to the commission that such changes have been made. If the commission shall not license any film for any of the above reasons, it shall furnish to the applicant a written report clearly setting forth the reasons for its refusal and a description of each rejected part of any film not disapproved in toto, and upon the applicant's filing in the office in which application for license is filed, a statement under oath by the owner or lessee of said film that the part or parts described has been eliminated from the film and all copies thereof a license shall be issued forthwith. But any license obtained upon false or misleading affidavits or application shall be wholly void ab initio. The commission may, by unanimous vote, withdraw any license at any time for cause shown.

Section 7. The commission may issue a permit for any film portraying current events, and not otherwise prohibited by law, without inspection thereof; Provided, That when application for such permit is made the chairman shall designate three commissioners or deputy commissioners, of whom a majority shall determine whether the application shall be granted: Provided, that any permit so granted may be revoked by the concurring vote of any two commissioners upon ten days' notice in writing to the applicant. Thereupon the film may be submitted to the commission for license as though no permit had ever been granted or revoked.

Section 8. All motion picture films of a strictly scientific character, intended for use only by the learned profession, shall not be required to be presented to the commission for examination and licenses; Provided, that the owner thereof, either personally, or by his duly authorized attorney or representative, shall file with the commission a description of such film, together with a statement under oath, that the said film is not to be exhibited at any private or public place of amusement.

Section 9. The commission shall adopt an appropriate seal, which shall be fixed, in such manner as the commission may direct, to every film approved by it. Such seal shall not be attached to any film which has been approved by the commission subject to revision, until after the required changes have been made, a record of which shall be kept and the portions or parts objected to shall be delivered into the possession of the commission.

Section 10. When any film has been approved, the commission shall issue a certificate in the form adopted by the commission. The certificate shall describe the film and shall bear a serial number, shall state its title, the date upon which it is approved by the commission and the number of lineal feet contained therein. The revocation or cancellation of any license or permit issued, shall not entitle the grantee thereof to the return of any fee paid; but the amount of any permit fee paid shall be credited upon the amount otherwise due for any subsequent license fee for the same film.

Section 11. Any applicant for license shall, in case of refusal, have the right of review by the full commission, whose decision shall be determined by the concurring vote of a majority thereof within five (5) days of the filing of the application for review and submission of the film. On such review the party shall not be limited to the evidence upon which the first refusal was had. Should license be refused after such review by the commission, the applicant may at any time within ninety (90) days from the date of such refusal appeal from the ruling of the commission to the circuit or superior court of Marion County, State of Indiana. Such appeal shall be perfected in the following manner: That is to say: A petition verified by the applicant shall be filed in the office of the clerk of one of the said courts, setting forth a description of the film and a complete record of the original application for license, the initial action thereon and the action of the commission on the application for review. The court may on the hearing of the appeal, and as a part thereof, attend throughout an exhibition of the film and receive such other evidence as shall be offered by the applicant and by the commission.

Section 12. The commission may, if it has licensed a film, issue a seal and certificate for each duplicate thereof without an examination of such duplicate upon applicant making affidavit before one of said commissioners, who shall have the power to administer oaths, that said duplicate is a true copy of a film previously licensed and sealed, upon the payment of the license fee hereinafter provided, and no additional charge shall be made by said commissioner for said affidavit.

Section 13. No person, firm or corporation shall carry or transport any film within the State of Indiana, unless such film has been licensed by the commission and a true copy of the certificate accompanies it, Provided, this section shall not apply to films consigned to this commission or returned by this commission to the consignor.

Section 14. No motion picture film which has not been licensed by the commission and which does not bear its seal, and is not accompanied by its certificate shall be exhibited in any licensed place of amusement, or elsewhere, for pay, free will offering, or for charity, in connection with any business in the State of Indiana.

Section 15. A fee of two dollars ($2) shall be charged by the commission for the examination of each reel of one thousand (1000) feet or less of an original film and one dollar ($1) for each additional one thousand (1,000) feet, or major fraction thereof and one dollar ($1) for each reel of one thousand (1000) feet or major fraction thereof, and fifty cents (50c) for each additional one thousand (1000) feet or major fraction thereof or a film which is a duplicate of any film which has been licensed. Any change or alteration of any picture or film after it has been licensed, except the elimination of a part, shall be a violation of this act, and shall also void the certificate and seal of such film.

Section 16. The penalty for the violation of this act shall be a fine of not more than five hundred dollars ($500) or imprisonment at the state farm for not more than one year or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court, and the film unlawfully changed, exhibited or transported shall be confiscated.

Section 17. The fees received by the commission shall be paid monthly into the treasury of the State of Indiana. The salaries of the commissioners, the deputy commissioners and other employees and the expenses of the Commission shall be paid out of the treasury of the state in the same manner as other state officers and departments are paid.

Section 18. Six (6) months after the commission has begun to license the use of films as provided by this act, and at any time thereafter, the commission shall have the power to revise and fix the fees either by increase or decrease to such sums as will produce sufficient income but only such income as is necessary to pay the entire cost of the commission including salaries and all other expenses. There is hereby appropriated out of the money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) for the preliminary expense of establishing, equipping and maintaining the state motion picture commission created by this act.

Section 19. There shall be no reduction of fees as provided in section 18 of this act until the state treasury has been reimbursed for the appropriation as provided in section 18 of this act.

Section 20. The power of this commission to regulate motion picture films shall apply to all advertisements of such films as in the judgment of the commission, the public welfare requires. The commissioners and deputy commissioners shall have the power of constables throughout the state and may stop the exhibition of any motion picture film which has not been licensed by this commission or is being shown contrary to state law.

Section 21. This commission may adopt such rules and regulations as may be found necessary and in the performance of its work and in harmony with this act and not in conflict with the laws of the State of Indiana.

Section 22. Whereas, an emergency exists, this act shall take effect immediately upon its passage except sections 13 and 14, which shall take effect four (4) months after its passage.

Whereas, The barbecuist in charge of this event will be the Hon. Charles Kares, a member of the House of Representatives from Vanderburgh County in the General Assembly; and

Whereas, The event will afford the members of the general assembly, together with their families and guests, an opportunity for an enjoyable social entertainment; therefore,

Resolution No. 4:

A concurrent resolution relative to an Indiana College Week to promote support for the non-state colleges of Indiana.

Whereas, There exists in the State of Indiana an educational crisis, made public by the recent survey, which shows that Indiana ranks twenty-seventh among the states of the Union in the support of Institutions for Higher Learning, which crisis this General Assembly has already recognized by providing more generously for those Institutions for Higher Learning within the state which are supported by taxation; and

Whereas, There exist in the State of Indiana, Institutions for Higher Learning, which are not supported from funds derived from taxation, and which are educating thousands of young men and women within the State of Indiana, thereby performing a service that otherwise would have been cared for by state institutions and paid for by funds derived from taxation, and over which Institutions the State Board of Education exercises supervision by determining standards, passing upon courses of study, and otherwise; and

Whereas, The State Board of Education has seen fit to raise the requirement for standard colleges within the State of Indiana to a minimum sum of $500,000 for endowment, thus confronting some of those institutions with the immediate necessity of providing a larger income in order to meet the standard imposed by the state; Therefore:

Section 1. Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, That we, the members of this General Assembly, do most heartily commend to the attention and support of the people of the State of Indiana the Colleges within the State which are not supported from funds derived from taxation, and, that one week in the spring of 1921 shall be designated "Indiana College Week." Also by striking out of section 5 of said bill.

Also by adding to said bill the following sections :

Section 5. That whenever the word "trailer" is used in this act, it shall be construed to mean any vehicle without motive power designated for carrying property or passengers wholly on its own structure and being drawn by a motor vehicle.

Section 6. Every owner of a trailer which shall be used upon the public highways of the State shall, within ten days after he becomes the owner, cause to be filed, by mail or otherwise, in the office of the Secretary of State, a verified application for registration on a blank to be furnished by the Secretary of State for that purpose, containing a brief description of the trailer to be registered, including the tonnage capacity and the name, age, residence or business address, including the county of the owner of such trailer.

Section 7. Upon the receipt of an application for registration of a trailer, the Secretary of State shall file such application in his office and Section 8. Upon the filing of such application and the payment of the fee hereinafter provided, the Secretary of State shall assign to such trailer a distinctive number, and, without expense to the applicant, issue and deliver to the owner, in such manner as the Secretary of State may select, a number plate at a place within the State of Indiana named by the applicant in his application. The Secretary of State shall pay the actual costs of such number plates furnished for all registered trailers, and all costs and expenses connected with the administration of this act shall be paid from the road fund created by law from moneys derived from the registration fees for motor vehicles.

Section 13. The violation of any of the provisions of section 6 of this act shall constitute a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars ($50.00). Whereas, There exists in the State of Indiana, Institutions for Higher Learning, which are not supported from funds derived from taxation, and which are educating thousands of young men and women within the State of Indiana, thereby performing a service that otherwise would have to be cared for by state institutions and paid for by funds derived from taxation, and, over which institutions the State Board of Education exercises supervision by determining standards, passing upon courses of study, and otherwise; and

Whereas, The State Board of Education has seen fit to raise the requirement for standard colleges within the State of Indiana to the minimum sum of $500,000 for endowment, thus confronting some of those institutions with the immediate necessity of providing a larger income in order to meet the standard imposed by the state; Therefore:

MR. PRESIDENT:

I move to amend Senate Bill No. 314 by striking out all of said bill after the enacting clause and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

Section 12. The commissioner shall have power to examine any such rating bureau making rates on property located in this State, as often as he deems it expedient to do so and shall make such examination not less than once in every three years. A report covering each examination shall be kept on file in his office. The expense of such examination shall be paid by the bureau examined. The commissioner of insurance may waive such examination upon the filing with him of a proper report of such examination made by some other insurance department or proper supervising officer within such three years. A statement with regard to such examination shall be made in the annual report of the commissioner.

Section 2. That section 16 of the above entitled act be amended to read as follows: Section 16. Every insurance company shall on or before the first day of July of each calendar year file in the office of the commissioner a classification schedule of premium receipts and losses incurred on risks in the State of Indiana during the preceding calendar year in accordance with the classification of hazards by the actuarial bureau of the national board of fire underwriters as approved by the insurance commissioners convention. In addition to such reports the said commissioner shall require such companies to file such classification schedules for the years ending December 31, 1920, inclusive, together with their net earnings during each of said years. If at any time it shall appear to the commissioner that the rates charged for fire insurance in this State are excessive or unreasonable in that the result of business of stock fire insurance companies during the five years next preceding the year in which the investigation is made as indicated by the classification schedules filed as provided for herein show an aggregate underwriting profit in excess of a reasonable amount upon any class or classes of risks then the said commissioner shall order a reduction in rates on such class or classes of risks. If in the same manner it appears that the rates upon any class or classes of risks are insufficient to show a reasonable underwriting profit, then the said commissioner shall increase the rate upon such class or classes of risks so as to produce a reasonable profit. In determining the question of a reasonable underwriting profit the commissioner shall give proper and reasonable consideration to the conflagration liability of said companies within and without this State. No such change in rates shall be ordered by the commissioner except after a hearing upon due notice as provided for in the preceding election. In addition to said insurance companies and rating bureaus any other person or corporation having an interest in the subject matter may become parties to said hearing. Any action of the commissioner in this connection shall be subject to summary court review as provided in the preceding section.

Section 3. That section 21 of the above entitled act be amended to read as follows: Section 21. Any violation of the provisions of this act by any fire insurance company or other insurer, or by any rate-making bureau, or officer or agent or either shall be a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be punishable by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25), nor more than five hundred dollars ($500) for each such violation. Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4:

Senator Meeker offers the following Senate Concurrent Resolution, No. 4:

A Concurrent Resolution approving the action of the Governor in advancing the undertaking for a waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Ocean.

Whereas, It is proposed to make such improvements in the St. Lawrence River as to make the Great Lakes accessible to ocean going commerce; and this improvement will in effect bring the State of Indiana hundreds of miles nearer the world's markets; and as there are within the State great resources that lie wholly undeveloped while the production of all things is diminished or retarded by distance from markets; and because our producers and the consuming public have alike suffered enormous losses in the last year by transportation shortage and failure; and because by reason of these conditions the transportation situation constitutes an emergent need; and as a number of states have joined in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, having as its object the early undertaking and completion of this improvement; therefore Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, That the State of Indiana is properly associated in the above named organization with its neighboring commonwealths in pressing to advance this undertaking and that the action of the Governor in so declaring is hereby approved and confirmed and the participation of this State by the Governor and those who represent him in the council of these states is approved.

Section 2. That the representatives of this State in the Congress of the United States be requested to facilitate and expedite in every possible way the prosecution of this undertaking for the economic freedom of a landlocked continent.

Whereas, The efficiency and vitality of the school system of a commonwealth are fundamental to the progress, welfare and happiness of the people; and

Whereas, There has never been a thorough and scientific study, by direct and first hand investigation of the system of public education in Indiana; and

Whereas, It is recognized that further progress and growth in efficiency of the system of public schools in this State imperatively demands readjustments of far-reaching importance; and that these readjustments, whether of administrative organization and control, of apportionment and distribution of school revenues, of provision of adequate facilities for training teachers, or of improvement in methods and materials of instruction, and other like problems, should be based upon a careful and impartial study of all the facts and conditions relating to the system of public education in Indiana; therefore

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, That a commission of five to be known and designated as the Indiana Education Survey Commission, to be selected and appointed by the Governor, is hereby created for the purpose of making an educational survey of the State of Indiana, including the investigations hereinafter enumerated.

BEARDSLEY, Senator.

Which motion prevailed.

Senator Dunn, Chairman of Committee on Rights and Privileges, submitted the following report:

MR. PRESIDENT:

A minority of your Committee on Rights and Privileges, to which was referred the following resolution:

"Whereas, It is reliably reported that by the action of the State Board of Education in adopting new text books for use in the elementary schools of the State, the aggregate cost to school patrons will exceed by more than $180,000.00 the amount expended for like books now in use under the existing contracts.

"Therefore, be it Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that the action of the State Board of Education in adopting text books at this time, and during the prevalence of high prices, was unwise and unwarranted and the Senate hereby expresses its disapproval of the action of the State Board of Education," has had the same under consideration and begs leave to make the following report:

1. We have a State Text Book Commission to whom is entrusted the duty of selecting books for the public schools of Indiana.

2. This Commission is our State Board of Education—a board whose personnel averages far higher than any similar board in this county.

3. The members of this board through many years of experience are exceptionally well prepared to choose text books suited to the needs of our schools, as they represent all phases of education in the State.

4. Seven members of the State Board of Education are officio members, serving without compensation and their duties are clearly defined by the statutes of the State.

5. The legality of the action of the State Board is not questioned, nor has there been any suggestion at any time that the members of the board did not act in good faith.

6. The State Text Book Commission by a majority vote after full and deliberate discussion, fixed February first as the date for the adoption of text books, so that the publishers would have ample time to manufacture and distribute the books before the opening of the schools in the Fall, and thus avoid the confusion and loss of time of teachers and pupils that had resulted in other years.

One of the members of the Board testified that the merit of the book is the controlling factor, as it should be. We must not lose sight of this point and let cost alone influence our judgment. However, let us consider the difference in cost between the prices that obtained in 1916 and the prices at which the same books or revised books were bid on February 1, 1921.

The following table shows this difference very clearly:

1916 Net Price on old Books:

Speller	$.13
History71
Physiology, Book No. 1
Physiology, Book No. 249
Grammar 122
Grammar, Book 240
Geography, Book 136
Geography, Book 271
Totals	$3.02

1921 Net Price on Old Books:

Speller	$.32
History	1.20
Physiology, Book No. 163
Physiology, Book No. 290
Grammar No. 150
Grammar No. 272
Geography, Book 184
Geography, Book 2	1.30
Totals	$6.41

This comparison of prices shows that the unsuccessful bidders offered their books at an increase of 112.9% over the prices they bid their books in 1916 and demonstrates the folly of the claim that an enormous sum of money would have been saved the State of Indiana, providing the State Board has thought best to readopt the books now in use.

Now let us compare the cost of the old books as bid in 1921 with the cost of the newly adopted books, and see what little difference there is.

	Prices on Old Books:	Prices on Adopted Books:
Speller, Book No. 1.....	$.32	$.30
Speller, Book No. 2.....	.00	.30
History.....	1.20	1.29
Physiology, No. 1.....	.63	.64
Physiology, Book No. 2.....	.90	.76
Grammar, No. 1.....	.50	.54
Grammar, No. 2.....	.72	.67
Geography, No. 1.....	.84	.96
Geography, No. 2.....	1.30	1.65
	<hr/>	<hr/>
Totals.....	$6.41	$7.11

The difference between the cost of the adopted books and the cost of the old books is 70 cents. There are 9 books in all, making an average increase of 8 cents per book, and, as each book is used an average of $2\frac{1}{2}$ years, the total increase in cost of the adopted books over the old books is only a little more than 3 cents per year.

Under the rules of the State Board governing the introduction of new books, these books are NOT bought ALL at one time. For instance, the geography pupils in Grade 4 will buy the new books, but those in Grade 5 will continue to use the old book until it is completed. Pupils in Grade 6 will buy the new large book, but pupils in Grade 7 will continue to use the old book. The same thing is true of all the other books. They are bought gradually and each one used, two, three or four years, according to its place in the State Course of Study.

All of the other states in which contracts expire in 1921, viz.: Montana, Alabama, New Mexico and Texas, having already awarded their contracts for the next five years, so that they might be sure to have a sufficient supply of text books on hand for the opening of the schools next Fall. Indiana is the last State to act.

The State Board acted wisely in letting the contract when they did. The chief element of cost in manufacturing books is labor. The recent investigation has shown that there is no probability of a reduction of labor costs in manufacturing books. Any material saving through slight reductions in the cost of paper and cloth, if the adoption has been delayed, is very questionable.

Under the law the State Board must make contracts this year. There is absolutely no way of getting for this Fall the old books at the cheap prices of 1916.

Prices on school books have gone up in the past four years, just as every other commodity has. The question before the State Board was whether to adopt the old books at increased prices or by paying an average of Three Cents more a book to get new books which in their judgment are better fitted to the needs of the schools.

Your committee recommends that the Governor of the State of Indiana direct an investigation covering the laws regulating school book adoptions, and that the findings made by this investigation be presented to the next General Assembly of the State of Indiana that if in its judgment any changes or amendments to the present law are necessary, they may be made, so far as to safeguard at all times the financial as well as the educational interests of the State.

Respectfully submitted by the minority of the committee.

OLIVER E. DUNN, Senator.

Which report was laid on the table, on motion of Senator Ratts.

MAJORITY COMMITTEE REPORT.

PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE SENATE:

On February 3, 1921, a resolution was introduced into this Senate by Senator Cann which reads as follows:

Whereas, It is reliably reported that by the action of the State Board of Education in adopting new text books for use in the elementary schools of the State, the aggregate cost to school patrons will exceed by more than $180,000.00, the amount expended for like books now in use under the existing contracts.

Therefore, be it Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that the action of the State Board of Education in adopting text books at this time, and during the prevalence of high prices, was unwise and unwarranted and the Senate hereby expresses its disapproval of the action of the State Board of Education.

This resolution was referred to the Committee on Rights and Privileges. The committee has had public hearings, conducted private investigations and has been furnished with almost unlimited figures and statistics on both sides of this question. The facts disclosed are that the Board was warranted by law for all of its procedure and that it followed to a large extent the precedent of former years. It had absolute authority by law for its actions. The only criticism that can be urged against the Board is whether or not it acted wisely in the adoption of the books at this time. On this point the opinion of the witnesses offer good authority and reputable gentlemen, men, whose honesty and integrity cannot be questioned have given testimony to both sides of this question.

The bids submitted to the Board were opened on December 17, 1920, and typewritten copies were made by the office of the State Superintendent and sent to each member of the Board and to every "Book Company" that requested a copy. The Board met in January and again in February. During that time we find that the prices were public property and there is no evidence before this committee of criticism of high prices by any one. The first time that the question of prices was raised was on the date of the adoption and after the Board had reached its decision. The question, of course, being raised by unsuccessful bidders.

We also find that the bids of many of the unsuccessful bidders were, in nearly all instances as high as those of the successful bidder. We also find that the cost between the adopted books and the old books now in use are as follows:

TABLE OF PRICES.

New Bid on	Old Books: Adopted Books
Speller (two books).....	$.32	$.30
History	1.20	1.29

Physiology, Book 1.....	.63	.64
Physiology, Book 2.....	.90	.76
Grammar, Book 1.....	.50	.54
Grammar, Book 2.....	.72	.67
Geography, Book 1.....	.84	.96
Geography, Book 2.....	1.30	1.65
Totals.....	$6.73	$7.11

It will be seen by this table of prices that there is a difference of 38 cents in the cost between the nine books now in use and the nine books that were adopted.

The Committee had evidence before it that in some places in the State the old books were satisfactory. It also had evidence before it that in some parts of the State they had been discarded, because they were not considered satisfactory and other books had been adopted in their place. We are also informed by the Attorney-General of the State of Indiana that the action of the Board in adopting the books was legal and that their action formed the basis of the contract and that the signing of the papers was merely a form matter, carrying it out and that it does not matter what action the Senate takes in this matter, that the contract has been let.

The Committee believes that if the law governing the letting of these contracts could be amended so as to give to the Board more latitude in the letting of these contracts it would have been possible, in view of the receding prices generally, to have saved to the patrons of the State of Indiana, some money in buying of said school books.

On one or two occasions the adoption was delayed to a later date. As to the advisability of this, there was a conflict of opinion on the account of not being able to get the books in time for use when the schools opened in the fall. Three of the members of the board favored postponing the adoption and ten wanted the plan which was followed. In all cases the book that was adopted was done by the unanimous vote of the Board.

We recommend that the Governor of the State of Indiana direct investigations covering the laws regulating school book adoptions and that the findings made by this investigation be presented to the next General Assembly of the State of Indiana so that if in its judgment any changes or amendments to the present law are necessary it can be made, so as to safeguard at all times the financial as well as the educational interest of the State.

We also find that the State Board of Education is a non-partisan board and composed of men of high character and integrity; some of whom have given years to the cause of education, and we believe that they have at all times and have in all places tried to keep all educational questions out of the realm of party politics and it is the opinion of the signers of this report that there is nothing political in the actions of the Board, and in view of all the circumstances we prefer to withhold judgment.

COMMITTEE REPORT.

Senators Arnold and Cann submitted the following Minority Report.

Your Committee on Rights and Privileges begs leave to submit the following report concerning its investigation of the wisdom of awarding contracts February 1, 1921, for supplying certain textbooks for exclusive use in all of the public schools of Indiana for a term of five years, said awards being based on sealed bids which were opened by the Indiana State Board of School Book Commissioners, December 17, 1920.

First. The members of the State Board of School Book Commissioners were invited to be present at a meeting of this committee to be held in the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, February 14, 1921.

Second. A copy of the following letter was sent to each bidder:

February 10, 1921.

"You are no doubt aware of the fact that the State Senate has asked for an investigation of the recent letting of book contracts for Indiana. You will please have your representative present at a meeting before the Committee on Rights and Privileges, Monday evening, February 14th, in the office of State Superintendent Hines, Indianapolis, Indiana."

(Signed) HOWARD A. CANN, Senator."

Third. A copy of the following telegram was sent to each bidder:

February 11, 1921.

"By resolution the Committee on Rights and Privileges, Indiana State Senate is authorized to investigate the contracts let by our State Board of School Book Commissioners for school books for the next five years. As one of the bidders for these contracts please advise if you could at this time on account of the reduction in prices of materials, etc., make a lower bid than the one submitted in December last year.

(Signed) MILES J. FURNAS, Chairman."

Fourth. In response to these invitations ten of the thirteen members of the State Board of School Book Commissioners, and also the representatives of many of the bidders were present at this committee meeting which was finally held in the Senate Chamber in order to accommodate the large number present.

Fifth. The committee decided to hear from four members of the Board. Dr. Parsons and Dr. Grose, who had voted to delay adoption for the purpose of securing lower prices, and Mr. Hall and Mr. Williams, who had voted to make the adoption February 1st. They also decided to hear from four representatives of the bidders, two who had received awards February 1st and two of the unsuccessful bidders.

Sixth. The members of the Board who had originally favored postponing the adoption and rejecting all bids, were of the opinion that there were good reasons to expect a reduction in prices if new bids were taken. The members of the Board, who had voted to hold the adoption February first, were reluctant to admit that a substantial reduction in prices could be obtained by readvertising.

Seventh. The replies received from the successful bidders and the talks made by the representatives of the successful bidders stoutly maintained that the cost of materials has not been materially reduced and that manufacturing conditions have not sufficiently improved to warrant a change in prices at this time and insisted that the only fair way to estimate costs of materials and manufacturing would be to take an average of the costs during the past five years.

Eighth. The replies from the unsuccessful bidders and the talks made by their representatives at this meeting just as stoutly maintained that there had already been a material reduction in the cost of paper and cloth and that manufacturing conditions had so improved that it was impossible to give a lower price now than was offered in December, 1920; that the trend of prices was downward as in all other things and that it was not fair to the State of Indiana to base present cost of manufacturing school books on an average of the exceptionally high costs which have prevailed during the past five years.

Ninth. Your committee feels that it would be decidedly unfair to base the cost of any product on an average of the exceptionally high prices which have prevailed during the past five years.

Tenth. There was a very wide difference of opinion as to total cost of the books which would be furnished on these six different contracts during the next five years, but it seems reasonably clear to your committee from evidence submitted and sworn statements filed, that the total cost of all of these books will exceed two millions of dollars.

Eleventh. As there is a possibility of rejecting all bids and advertising for new sealed bids it did not seem fair to ask the bidder to state publicly and in the presence of his competitors just how much of a reduction he would make in his next bid. But even a ten per cent reduction would mean a saving to the people of Indiana of more than two hundred thousand dollars and the evidence submitted to your committee suggests that a greater reduction than this can reasonably be expected.

Twelfth. Your committee is convinced that the provision in the law requiring a reduction in the price of a textbook adopted in Indiana if the same textbook is sold for less money in any other state, really offers no protection to the people of Indiana for the simple reason that it is the custom of the publishers to make changes in the book offered for less money elsewhere and then set up the claim that it is not the same book. It was brought out at this committee meeting that no member of the State Board of School Book Commissioners could recall a single case in which the people of Indiana had ever been protected by this provision in the law.

Thirteenth. There was an effort made to establish the fact that when new books were adopted they are introduced gradually and that the children use their old books until they are worn out or until they are through with them, but the evidence submitted by the publishers did not sustain this contention. It was shown that when new books are adopted they are put into use at once and that the children are practically ashamed to appear at school insisting on using the old discarded books. The result is that practically one third of all the books sold during the entire period of adoption, will be sold during the first year.

Fourteenth. Your committee has no desire to impeach the integrity of the members of the State Board of School Book Commissioners; it does not claim that there is anything irregular in their action; it does maintain, however, that making these awards February first, based on bids submitted December 15th of last year was a poor business deal for the people of Indiana and that no member of the State Board of School Book Commissioners should feel that there is any personal reflection in an investigation of this kind concerning a matter of this magnitude.

Fifteenth. As the present contracts do not expire until June 1, 1921, and as the evidence submitted that manufacturing conditions have so improved that the first year's supply can be made and distributed in time for the opening of schools September 1, 1921, even if the adoption is not made until late in May, your committee earnestly recommends that the Senate by resolution request the State Board of School Book Commissioners to reject all bids and readvertise for sealed bids to be submitted not earlier than May 15, 1921.

Sixteenth. We would further recommend that if it is not possible to set aside the present adoption that there be embodied in the contract before signing, that the prices of such contract shall be adjusted annually and made to conform with the prices of material, labor and all other financial and industrial conditions prevailing at that time.

Seventeenth. In view of the circumstances concerning the adoption we believe that the present law should be amended and we recommend and direct that the State Superintendent of Public Instruction investigate the subject and report their findings at the beginning of the next General Assembly.

Eighteenth. In conclusion your committee here signing believe that it will cost the school patrons of Indiana more than $650,000.00 on account of the change from one textbook to another, and these figures have been arrived at from sworn statements from publishers who have furnished the books the past five years. There is nothing in the law compelling a change at this time when the financial and industrial conditions are so unsettled, thousands of men out of work, and farm products below cost of production. According to the evidence of the Board none of these things entered into the discussion at the time of adoption.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the committee here signing.

ARNOLD, Senator.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

MR. PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE SENATE.

I have this day approved the following:

Senate Enrolled Act No. seventy-eight (78) and have caused the same to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State.

WARREN T. McCRAY,
Governor.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

MR. PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE SENATE:

I am of the opinion that Senate Enrolled Act No. 21 is in violation of our State Constitution in that it provides for arbitrary classification of municipalities contrary to the constitutional limitation as defined in the case of Town of Long View v. City of Crawfordsville, 164 Ind. 117. I also doubt the wisdom of entering upon the field of creating additional municipalities for the purpose of expanding the debt contracting powers of the tax payers even if it be assumed that such legislation would be free from constitutional objections.

For these reasons I herewith return act without my approval for such further consideration as may be deemed proper.

WARREN T. McCRAY,
Governor.

I have this day approved the following:

Senate Enrolled Act number seventy-eight (78) and have the caused the same to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State.

WARREN T. MCCRAY,

MR. PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF THE SENATE:

I find that Senate Enrolled Act No. 5 substantially covers the same subject matter provided for in section 19 of the Act of July 26, 1920, known as the securities enactment (Acts 1920, p. 94), but apparently by inadvertance it fails to include imprisonment as a part of the punishment for any of the offenses therein described.

I am of the opinion that the former enactment would be repealed by the act under consideration, and as the former statute seems more comprehensive and satisfactory, I herewith return said Senate Enrolled Act No. 5 without my approval for such further consideration as may be deemed appropriate.

Respectfully,
WARREN T. MCCRAY,
Governor.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

MEMBERS OF THE SEVENTY-SECOND GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF INDIANA IN SPECIAL SESSION:

I have invited you to meet in joint session this morning to lay before you the facts underlying the necessity for calling a special session of the legislature at this time. During my experience as your Governor I have endeavored at all times to be frank with you and with the people of Indiana, and I therefore assume that you are familiar with the history of the reformatory removal question from the passage of the act up to the present time. For the purpose of refreshing your mind, however, I wish to briefly read you the facts in the case as they exist.

The State Prison, or what was known later as the State Reformatory, was established at Jeffersonville in the year 1821, just one hundred years ago. Additions and betterments were added from time to time in the endeavor to keep it up with the demands of a growing population.

In February, 1918, a most destructive fire occurred, burning or damaging many of the buildings and destroying much of the usefulness of the institution as a reformatory. By that fire the trade school building, the ice and cold storage plant, chapel and library, workshops, officers' quarters, administration building, general kitchen, the inmates' and officers' dining room, and the interior of two cell houses were practically destroyed. Since then the administration building and some of the other buildings have been cheaply and temporarily rebuilt or repaired. A new dining-room and kitchen for inmates was built last year. At present the laundry, boiler-shop, shoe shop, bath house and the parole and identification departments are housed in temporary wooden structures.

Immediately following this destructive conflagration, the removal to some more central location was suggested and met with generous popular approval. The reasons advanced for such removal were sound and logical. The old prison or reformatory was built at a time when the thought uppermost in the minds of the people and the courts was punishment by imprisonment of the criminal with no thought of attempted reformation.

The buildings remaining did not meet with the ideas and requirements of a modern reformatory and the erection of new and additional buildings would make the whole proposition a patch-work affair, even after the expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars.

The records show that in the past five years over 75 per cent of the inmates committed to the reformatory came from the territory north of a line drawn east and west across the State, including the cities of Richmond, Indianapolis and Terre Haute. The cost of railroad transportation from the county seat towns and cities included in that area is over 100 per cent more to Jeffersonville than to Indianapolis. This is a matter of much importance when you consider that not only the car fare of the prisoner is involved, but also the round trip fare of the officer accompanying the criminal. It is regrettable that it is the practice in some counties to send a deputy with each convict regardless of how many are in the party. This is an expense to the county that is in most cases unnecessary and unwarranted, but it should be considered in making an estimate of the saving that would follow by having the institution more centrally located to the territory contributing the majority of its population.

Soon after the fire, Governor Goodrich appointed a commission, consisting of Senator Winfield Miller of Indianapolis, ex-State Senator Robert Bracken of Frankfort, George A. H. Shideler, General Superintendent of the reformatory, Dr. Samuel E. Smith, Superintendent of the Eastern Hospital for Insane, and Amos W. Butler, Secretary of the Board of State Charities, to thoroughly investigate the advisability of relocating the reformatory and report to him in time to lay the proposition before the Seventy-first General Assembly, convening in January, 1919. This committee made a thorough investigation of the whole problem and on December 27, 1918, submitted a report to the Governor recommending the removal of the reformatory and submitting a bill they had prepared, providing for the accomplishment of that purpose. This bill was introduced and passed by the House, but failed to pass the Senate, as it did not meet the approval of the people of southern Indiana at that time. It was also argued that the question should be delayed on account of the high cost of building materials and labor, and thus the matter of relocating and rebuilding was abandoned for the time being. The necessity, however, of determining upon some fixed policy concerning the future of the reformatory was regarded as pressing and vital by those who were acquainted with the purpose and the physical condition of the property.

Early in the fall of 1920 the well-known and well-established firm of Colgate & Company of New York City was seeking a western location for an extension of their increasing business. They desired a location which would give them a commanding position with reference to the southern and western trade, and it appeared to them that the river cities of southern Indiana would meet their demands and offered a satisfactory location for their projected branch. Their attention was called to the possibilities of converting the old reformatory at Jeffersonville into a desirable property for their purpose, and at the same time locate themselves advantageously from the standpoint of a strategic place for the operation of their business.

Negotiations were opened up. A tentative price of $350,000 was talked about, exclusive of such fixed and removable equipment and machinery as could be utilized to advantage by the State in the construction of a new institution. As a basis for my judgment of the value of the property, I relied greatly upon the appraisal made by the highly reputable and responsible firm of McMeans & Tripp in June, 1918. After a careful and exhaustive survey, they declared under oath that the estimated value of the property embodied in the Colgate & Company transaction was $270,342.95. After this appraisal had been made, the State spent in additions and betterments the sum of $75,000.21, making a total of $345,352.16, an amount considerably below the price talked about as the sale price of the property.

Realizing that we had at least one good, live, prospective purchaser, the property was duly advertised for sale, according to law, and the date for opening bids was fixed for April 19, 1921. On the date set it was found that the offer of Colgate & Company in the sum of $351,101.01 was the only bid received and the property was therefore declared sold to them and a certified check for $105,330.31 accompanying their bid was accepted and turned over to the State Treasurer.

A bill for the relocation and erection of a new reformatory was drawn and was introduced and passed by the Seventy-second General Assembly. The bill was signed by the Governor on March 2, 1921, and thus became a law. This bill was based upon the assumption that the State Farm and the reformatory could be united under one management and that the necessary buildings for the two institutions would be erected upon adjoining sites without detracting from the highest degree of usefulness and efficiency of either. This would certainly look to an uninformed business man as being a reasonable and economic proposition.

After considerable investigation of the practicability and feasibility of the proposal, and acting upon the unanimous advice and opinion of a score of the most learned, experienced and successful men who have given their life to the problems offered by the criminal class and who have had daily and practical observation and training in handling criminals of both types, the plan of locating the two institutions together was abandoned by the removal commission with the consent of the Governor.

It was also found that on account of the physical daily requirements of an institution of this kind and the utter failure of that territory to furnish such requirements, the penal farm site or any location adjoining same could not be thought of.

This mistake was due in part to the unfortunate necessity under our Constitution of inducting a newly elected executive into office after the assembly has convened before he has had any opportunity to acquaint himself with the great problems which immediately confront him and upon which he must promptly declare himself.

The proceedings of the commission attempting to locate the reformatory under the Act has been fully set forth in a printed report, a copy of which was mailed to each of you in order that you might be thoroughly informed as to every move made and every reason why the relocation was abandoned under the provisions of the law established.

The succeeding steps leading up to the calling of this special session are well and tersely set out by the following letter written by Colgate & Company, following an interview I had with their representative in Washington, D. C., on Wednesday, November 16, 1921:

"Colgate & Company desires to make a further proposition to the State of Indiana with reference to the property at Jeffersonville, our offer for which was accepted by the State in June of this year. The matter stands as follows:

"The Act of the regular session of the legislature of 1921, which authorized the sale, stipulated that the new institution was to be completed by October 30, 1922. Our bid provided, accordingly, that we might withdraw if delivery of the property were not made by that date, and it was accepted with that condition.

"You subsequently advised us that the commission appointed under the Act had found that its provisions so restricted their action that it was impracticable for them to proceed. At that time, however, it was thought that certain amendments to the State Constitution with reference to taxation, then about to be voted upon, might be adopted, in which case there would of necessity have followed a special session of the legislature to carry out the changes in the tax laws which the amendments contemplated. It was your intention in that event to propose to the legislature amendments to the Act of 1921, which would make it possible to proceed with the location and construction of the new institution and thus to carry out the sale of the old one to us. The defeat of these amendments, however, seemed to leave no hope of carrying out the purchase unless we were willing to await the 1923 session of the legislature and that we could not possibly do.

"While confronted with this situation and the apparent necessity of withdrawing our bid and giving up wholly the plan for a plant at Jeffersonville, we are advised that it has been suggested that in the public interest there be called a special session of the legislature for the specific purpose of amending the Act of 1921.

"We could not ask that favorable consideration be given to this suggestion on any grounds relating solely to our interest in the matter. We believe we are in a position, however, to add to the considerations of public interest which might add to the expediency of calling a special session.

"In the expectation of getting possession of the property at an early date, we have made extensive arrangements with that end in view. We have had plans for remodeling the buildings drawn; have obtained the publication of freight rates; and have laid new plans for all our western business. On all of this we have spent large sums of money. If we have to look for a site elsewhere, much of this expense will be duplicated and there will be added the very much greater cost incident to further delay in starting our plant, and to the general upset it would cause in our arrangements. This would all mean a heavy loss. In the hope that it may facilitate the calling of the special session and that this loss may be avoided, we beg to make this further proposition to the State of Indiana.

"If the Act of 1921 is amended by February 1, 1922, in a manner that will enable the commission to proceed at once upon the location and construction of the new institution, we will add to the amount of our original offer the further sum of $50,000, payable when the property is delivered to us. We also propose that in the event we may be enabled to take over the property at Jeffersonville in whole by September 15, 1923, that we will pay to the State of Indiana a further sum of $50,000, making in all for the transfer of the property described in our former proposal the total sum of $451,101.01, less the payment of $105,330.31 made last spring, leaving a balance due of $345,770.70, payable when delivery is made.

Respectfully submitted,

COLGATE & COMPANY,
By Gilbert Colgate, President."

In my talk with the legal representative I made it plain to him that to my mind there was one of three ways open for them to follow. First, the State would cancel their agreement with them and return the bonus paid with interest and they would be at liberty to seek a new location. Second, for them to wait until the matter could be taken up in the regular way at the next regular session in 1923, when I would use all the power of my office to have the law amended so we could proceed to relocate and rebuild at the earliest possible moment. Third, if they considered it to their financial advantage to have earlier possession, than would be possible under such regular procedure as outlined in alternative number two, then under certain conditions a special session might be called at an early date. The letter just read was their answer.

There are two fundamental facts that you should keep always before you. One is, if we do not act in this matter at this time we will lose the advantage of this sale and doubtless the State and community would lose the benefits that would accrue from having this great organization locate within our borders. The other, that in order for this institution to function in the big helpful way toward the education and moral improvement in the young men who are committed to its care, the State will be compelled to develop the present property to its best efficiency, thereby spending several hundred thousand dollars. The choice that is to be made is obvious, and to my mind our duty is plain.

I am now anxious that the bill submitted to you for your consideration be passed, in order that we may complete the deal and proceed to prepare the way toward an early delivery of the property to its purchasers. I consider it a most fortunate circumstance that we were able to find a customer for a piece of property that ordinarily would attract few buyers and at the same time acquire such a valuable industrial asset for the State as we do when the corporation of Colgate & Company becomes established. The advantages to the State, and more especially to the community most affected, are indeed great and will be constant and permanent. I am reliably informed that the location of Colgate & Company in Indiana will insure the location of other important industries in that locality.

I am therefore asking your favorable action on the impending bill, as it is an important step in a business transaction in which the State's best interests, good faith and honor are involved. You are called here to do your part in preparing the way for the final consummation of a business transaction. I sincerely trust you have given this matter your careful consideration and are ready to act favorably and promptly upon its disposition.

As the responsible head in whom the Constitution reposes the sole responsibility for calling the members of the Assembly together, I earnestly hope and respectfully ask that you will favor no other legislation at this time, but will agree with me that all other matters, however seemingly important, should be delayed until the next regular session.

The Lieutenant-Governor announced that the purpose for which the joint session has been called has been completed and the session now stands adjourned.

The Senate reconvened.

On motion of Senator English the Senate recessed until 2:00 p. m.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

December 14, 1921.

The Senate was called to order by the President at 2:00 o'clock p. m.

The President called for the introduction of bills.

Senate Bill No. 370, introduced by Senator Hogston.

A bill for an act to repeal an act entitled "An act concerning annuities or benefits for teachers retired after specified years of service or for disability, and other matters connected therewith and pertaining thereto," which became a law without the governor's signature and which constitutes Chapter 182 of the published acts of the year 1915, and all acts and laws amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Which bill was read a first time by title and referred to Committee on Judiciary A.

The President handed down Senate Enrolled Act No. 64, which was returned by the Secretary of State as follows:

To the President of the Senate.

I find that Senate Enrolled Act No. 64 is substantially covered in House Enrolled Act No. 396, which later act has been approved by me and covers the subject-matter in what appears to be a more satisfactory way.

I, therefore, herewith place in your hands for filing said Senate Enrolled Act No. 64 without having approved the same to the end that you may lay the same before the General Assembly at its next session for such further consideration as may be deemed proper.

Respectfully, •
